GEORGIAN RANKS AMONG LEADING HEAVY CONTENDERS

British Sport Scribes Wax Vitriolic Over Showing of Phil

LONDON (AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling has tossed aside the caution that used to mar his efforts in the ring and smashed his way once more into the forefront of challengers for the heavyweight championship.

Just five weeks after his sensational one-round knockout of Otto Von Porat, lantern-jawed Norwegian, Stribling stormed through the weak defenses of Phil Scott, English champion, in Wimbledon and knocked him out in the second round.

A crowd of 35,000 roared approval of the Georgian's furious attack and cheered their fallen champion.

Among the stinging comments on Scott's showing was the following from the Express:

"British boxing has been in the mud before but never so much as last night. Stribling, of course, is due for praise but even that praise is lessened by the remembrance that he had nothing to beat."

It was apparent early in the first round that Stribling was out to end the contest as quickly as possible. He smashed Scott all over the ring, using left hooks almost exclusively. Before the round was over the Georgian had Scott on the floor for counts of five, seven and nine and the Briton was reclining on the canvas for the fourth time when the bell came to the rescue.

The second round was only a minute old when Stribling rifled home a right to the jaw and a thudding left hook to the body that sent Scott to the floor for the long count. Scott, an exasperated expression on his face, quickly got to one knee, vainly tried to rise at nine and fell back on his haunches as the referee counted ten. Stribling weighed 158; Scott, 206.

RIFLE CLUB SECOND IN TRIANGULAR SHOOT

Appleton Rifle and Pistol club lost a triangular shoot Sunday at Pella by one point, the Pella five winning. Wausau, the other entrant, was tied with Appleton club in points but lost the honors because the Appleton team had a one point advantage in the 100 yard aggregate score.

The match was one of the closest ever entered by the Appleton club. Several weeks ago Pella defeated Appleton here. The five high scores on each squad made up the club team.

Scores for Sunday's match follow:

Cubs Break Cincy Jinx And Win Double Header; Brooklyn Beats Braves

Athletics Win from New York Yanks in Twelfth, 6 and 5

BY ORLO ROBERTSON Associated Press Sports Writer

ACK up to the majors for his second trial, Hollis Thurston, 31, has strengthened the National league pennant hopes of manager Wilbert Robinson and his Brooklyn Robins.

With Dazzy Vance pitching only mediocre ball and the Robins badly in need of a good right hander, Thurston apparently has relieved "Uncle Robby" of one less worry as the Robins continued to show the way in the hectic senior circuit race.

Yesterday Thurston opened his third game of the season against the Braves and turned in an even more brilliant exhibition, yielding only two hits and no runs. Just 29 men faced the Brooklyn hurler, Maranville, who walked, being thrown out in a double play. Need-

ALLIS TOPS FIELD AS STATE AMATEUR

Veteran Milwaukee Golfer Gets 74 for Qualifying Round

Milwaukee—Ned Allis, nine times state amateur gold champion, stroked his way over the Blue Mound course in 74 Monday, to lead the first day's qualifiers in the state championship.

The wind and gale, that carried many a shot off line, and the puzzling greens, that made putting a real task, didn't seem to bother the former champion. His drives were straight down the fairway and his iron was well high perfect. His putts sailed true to the mark.

One stroke behind Allis were Al Foss, the young Tuckaway star, and Morgan Manchester of Madison. And two strokes away from the leaders were Edward Loh, Hillmore, G. Mader, Pewaukee Lake club, and Richard Frost of Kenosha.

Jim Anderson, the defending champion of Kenosha, found putting a little difficult on the tricky greens and came in with a 78, which is safely within the select circle.

RUSSELL WITH LEADERS

Up among the leaders and certain of qualifying was Buddy Russell, the Milwaukee district champion, who checked in with a 77. There wasn't anything spectacular about his golf, but neither was there any part of it off color. He played every shot well.

Foster Cannon of Westmore was another Milwaukeean who appeared certain to have won a place in the championship flight. He put to gether a pair of 39's for a 78 total. Billy Sixty found himself ten over par on the last nine, but negotiated three straight birdies and posted a 79 taking a 42 on the outward journey.

Appleton golfers who competed in the first day's qualifying round were Jimmy McKenney who had a 44-44 for an 88, Charles McKenney who competed in the senior championship counted a 43-45-88. August Brandt also was listed to compete in the qualifying round but his score was not included in reports.

Three other Appleton golfers will tee off in the second day's qualifying round today.

THIRD ARRLINGTON JOCKEY IS INJURED

Chicago (AP)—Jockey M. Sims has become the third steeplechase rider to take a trip to the hospital during the Arlington park season.

Sims yesterday suffered painful injuries when thrown by Myrthus Jockey Harry Hunt, who suffered concussion of the brain when they fell on him last week, has shown improvement and he is expected to recover. J. Hunt, injured in the same race as Hunt, left the hospital Saturday.

CHARLIE ROOT FANS 12 CINCY BATTERS

Chicago (AP)—Charlie Root, Cub right-hander, has set a season strikeout mark for National league pitchers to fire at.

In defeating Cincinnati yesterday Root struck out 12 men, one more than the previous best season effort made by Wild Bill Hallahan of the Cardinals, in his first appearance of the campaign against the Cubs. The victory was Root's twelfth of the year and broke the Reds' jinx over the Cubs after five straight defeats.

TOM HEENEY HITS COMEBACK TRAIL

New York (AP)—Tom Heenev, New Zealand blacksmith, strikes the comeback trail tonight in a ten-round bout with Gerald (Tuffy) Griffiths, heavy punching youngster from Sioux City, Ia. Griffith ruled a heavy favorite.

The Brooklyn Dodgers rested Dazzy Vance, the club's star hurler, nine days for an Independence Day game with the Giants and he lost it.

Fresco Thompson Failure As Shortstop This Year

BY JOHN B. FOSTER Copyright 1930

NEW YORK (CPA)—Fresco Thompson, second baseman of the Philadelphia Nationals, wishes to get away from that team and is hoping that someone will propose a trade for him or purchase his release.

Thompson has been warning the club quite regularly of late. Barney Fiberg played the keystone position in Friday's game with the Chicago Cubs.

When the baseball season began there were gorgeous predictions about the wonderful fielding that would be seen when Tommy Thewen and Thompson got busy this year around second base. Thompson seemed to be as fit as white duck pants in August, and Thewen was coming around splendidly after the severe auto accident that had befallen him in Florida the previous spring.

Thompson and the Philadelphia owner had a disagreement about salary before the season began and Thompson did not sign a contract until he reached Winter Haven, Fla., where the Phillies train. It appears that Thompson was offered a con-

STRELECKI GIVES SAINTS FIVE HITS, MILWAUKEE WINS

Joe Kuhel, Kansas City, Is Sold to Washington Nationals

CHICAGO (AP)—Another American association star Joe Kuhel, Kansas City's slugging first baseman, will have an opportunity to show what he can do in major league baseball.

Kuhel, whose batting average of last week, .377—moved him into second place among the league's batters, yesterday was sold to Washington.

Yesterday's activities served to enable Louisville to add another full game to its lead over St. Paul. The Colonels slugged out a 14 to 5 decision over Toledo, while the Saints again were the victims of good Milwaukee pitching. Louisville battered three young Toledo pitchers for 17 hits, including home runs by Merville and pitcher Phil Weinert.

After being held to two hits in one game of Sunday's doubleheader, St. Paul ran into Ed Strelecki at his best and was held to five hits, losing by 3 to 2. Wilcey Moore was charged with the loss, his sixth of the season. He was after his twentieth victory, but three infield hits and Jack Saltzgaver's error in the fifth, gave the Brewers three runs and the decision.

Colombus beat Indianapolis, 13 safeties to six, in a night game, but the Indians bunched theirs and won, 4 to 3.

WEEK'S RESULTS C. D. 10, Foresters 1.

The Forester softball team took another trimming Monday evening when it lost to Co. D, in a game that was scheduled for several weeks ago and postponed because the Guards were in camp. The score last evening was 10 and 1.

Counting markers in every inning the Soldiers had little trouble registering a win. The Foresters counted their lone run on an error, Wally Klein, hurler for the Guards having things well in hand.

Batteries for the Guards were Klein and Zuehlke; for the Foresters, Beck and Steenis.

Tonight the Foresters will again take the diamond this time against August Brandt's Fords.

THAT STRAIGHT LEFT ARM

THE motion picture camera shows beyond any doubt that a straight left at impact is an absolute necessity. We began to talk about the straight left long ago but we were conscious of it then only because a few snapshots had shown the left arms of some experts to be straight at or near the top of swing where the motion was slow enough to be properly photographed.

But little harm is done by a slight relaxation of the left at the top of the swing. Many first class players permit such a thing. But for controlled, accurate, and consistent hitting the left arm simply must be straight when the clubhead meets the ball. And it seems to me to be sounder practice to maintain it so throughout the stroke rather than to rely upon taking up even the least bit of slack during the downstroke.

I am an extravagant admirer of the play of the youngest professional at present, Horton Smith, of Missouri, but it strikes me that Horton's left arm may be the cause of whatever troubles he has. Other people can score in the high seventies in competition without occasioning much comment, but young Smith's style is so simple and his swing nearly always so well-grounded that one seeks a reason for his seventy-eight in the second round at Hoy-

CITY CHILDREN REACH KAUKAUNA FOR BIG OUTING

Residents to Care for Milwaukee Tots for Two Weeks

Kaukauna — Overdue, yet happy with expectations of a delightful two weeks in a small city the children brought to Kaukauna by the Big Brothers and Sisters organization of Milwaukee, arrived here at 2:30 Monday afternoon. The children were met at the depot by their guardians or the next two weeks.

People who will care for three tiny tots here include Mrs. Bert Fargo, Mrs. Frank Schmidt, Mrs. William Tennesen, Mrs. Elizabeth Buerth, Mrs. George Buerth, Mrs. Joseph Scherer and Mrs. William Harwood. The children who will spend the vacation in these homes are: Dorothy Zielinski at Fargo's, Leonard Bowski and Michael Biga at Schmidt's, Florence Bolinski at Tennesen's, Margaret Vlk and Lorraine Vlk at Buerth's, Charlotte Hanke at Scherer's, Shirley Conley and Delores Driscoll at Lehners and Gertrude Strid at Harwood's.

One child is staying at the home of Mrs. Charles Peterman for the entire summer. This child came to Mrs. Peterman on last year's trip and was liked so well that Mrs. Peterman sent for her again this year. Some of the others also went to the homes in which they stayed last summer.

The exact date on which the children will return will not be known until the latter part of the week, when Mrs. O. Aufreiter expects to have word from the woman in charge of the children.

Because of lack of time the woman was unable to give any instructions except the plans to which the children were to go. There were two other groups of these little visitors on the train bound for northern cities. For this reason the woman in charge was unable to stay overnight in Kaukauna, as she did last year.

SHERWOOD MAN BRINGS IN FIRST PICKLE LOAD

Kaukauna — Charles Seidl of Sherwood was the first farmer to bring in a load of pickles Monday morning, when the Flanagan-Loughrin pickle factory opened for the 1930 season. His load of cucumbers weighed 700 pounds.

Approximately 20 men were on the premises searching for work, but only three men were needed. As the cucumbers were not coming in rapidly these men were engaged in mowing the weeds and long grass away from in front of the factory and also cleaning the huge vats in order to be set for the rush which will soon start.

Mr. Loughrin urged that farmers bring in the ripe crop as soon as possible. If the farmers has no way of bringing in the harvest, a truck can be hired at the plant. Cucumbers are bought at the rate of $3 a hundred pounds, with no limit to the grower.

NEW PASTOR COMING TO CITY NEXT SUNDAY

Kaukauna — Reverend J. Schiebe, who was recently named to succeed Rev. E. L. Worthman, will preach his first sermon at Immanuel reformed church next Sunday. The Rev. Schiebe was previously pastor at Campbellsport. His duties as pastor of the Kaukauna church will begin simultaneously with his first talk to his new congregation.

CYCLE OF INTEREST RATES SWINGS BACK TO FORMER LEVEL

California Power Company Offers Bonds at 4 1-2 Per Cent

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright 1930, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—Considerable significance was attached Monday to the offering of $25,000,000 Pacific Gas & Electric 4 1/2 per cent bonds which were heavily oversubscribed. This meant that not only were corporations that have been financing with stock changing back to fixed interest obligations but that the cycle of interest rates had swung around again so that once more, as in 1927 and in 1928, it was possible to sell 4 1/2 per cent mortgage obligations on good terms both to the borrower and to the investor.

The issue of this California power & light company is among the largest at the low rate of interest that has so far been announced. It is believed to be the forerunner of more issues of bonds at 4 1/2 per cent although it is doubtful if the total will come anywhere near approximating the high figures characterizing the investment markets in the autumn of 1927 and in the spring of 1928. Then not only the public utilities put out huge amounts of 4 1/2 per cent bonds, but there were heavy emissions of them by railroads and industrials.

Some of the better foreign credits also refunded maturing and callable dollar obligations with a 4 1/2 per cent coupon.

SITUATION CHANGED

The sequel of the low coupon issues two and a half and three years ago was an unfortunate one in that they were placed on the eve of the rising money market. Before they were a few months old the whole aspect of the credit situation had changed. This left huge masses of new bonds in the hands of underwriting syndicates. It required months of secondary distribution at concessions of many points from the original prices to place them in the hands of the ultimate consumer.

Conditions now are much more favorable for bonds of this sort than they were in the earlier period. All forms of money are lower now than they were then. The outlook is for a continued period of reduced rates. There is comparatively little competition for money either from business or from the stock market. Bonds of the same issue as were sold today by the Pacific Gas & Electric company at 9 1/2 were offered in September 1927 at 9 1/2 and subsequently sold above 101. Later an additional issue was placed at 99.

Still another favoring influence to bonds of this character is the present demand for high grade issues and the rather indifferent attitude of the investor to lower grades of bonds even though they show a wide margin of earnings over interest requirements, and in some cases, are legal for the investment of savings banks in a number of states. In other words, while there is a more than inquiry for bonds at present than in 1927 or in 1928, when money was also easy, the demand at present for highest grade issues exceeds that of the earlier years.

Consequently, as the issues of the premier bonds have not been excessive and there is no undigested supply with investment houses, it is anticipated that before long unemployed capital must seek those grades of corporation bonds that have a good rating but have so far been neglected and show comparatively little recovery during the past month.

EXPERT SUMMONED TO FIGHT OIL WELL FIRE

Refugio, Texas — (AP) — "Tex" Thornton, nitroglycerine expert and jousting extraordinary with burning oil wells, has been summoned to put his skill against a wild gasser which since Saturday has shot skyward a 100-foot column of roaring flames.

Thornton arrived last night from Amarillo with his crew and immediately began preparations to tame the wild blaze, a task at which other oil men have failed.

Heavy galvanized guards were constructed to permit Thornton and his crew to go closer to the blaze, and a large pit near the 20-foot crater blasted by exploding gas was filled with water to be released into the well.

Several hundred residents have left the vicinity of the fire after three buildings were destroyed. Derivatives and other equipment have been moved away from the burning well and several nearby houses torn down.

Kenosha — (AP) — World peace can be established only through the pre-emptive factor of "a willingness to understand our neighbor nations," Solomon Levitan, state treasurer, today told the Rotary club here.

"Everybody wants better business, better living conditions and fair play," he said, "and the better the understanding that exists among the nations, the more cooperation there will be in business relations."

GENTENARY OF 1830 IS CELEBRATED IN PARIS

Paris — (AP) — The French government today celebrated the centenary of 1830, the year when Paris forced the abdication of King Charles Tenth and restored the tricolor as the flag.

To mark this event, the feature of this afternoon's ceremony in front of the city hall was President Doumergue's hoisting of the French colors.

The official program was the culmination of a three day celebration given over to dancing and other entertainment in the Place de la Bastille and the Place de la Republique, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday corresponding to "the glorious three" days of the Revolution when Marquis de La Fayette was given command of Paris troops after the people had stormed the Louvre.

At that time hundreds took turns sitting on the throne and finally a corpse was seated there as a sign that the monarchy was dead. Ten days later, however, Louis Philippe was elected monarch.

It was a coincidence that the revolution precipitated by a kings suspension of the freedom of the press should be commemorated today by Premier Tardieu, whose life work has been journalism.

VELVET HAT STILL IS RATHER SCARCE

It's Seen Only With Semi-formal Evening Gowns so Far

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
New York — Though Paris is pledged to the 'vet hat, it is being worn thus far only with semi-formal evening frocks. The felt hat is still at the peak of its vogue, and the straw hat is everywhere in evidence. As a matter of fact, you may make your hat of any material you like, with the possible exception of flannel, and still be in style.

TWINKLE, TWINKLE
London ladies are carrying a very twinkly cigarette case these evenings. Either it is covered all over with brilliants, or else it has a pattern of brilliants to match that on the little evening wristbag. The newest evening cigarette cases are of enameled metal, plus the glittery stones.

THIS Wide Reach bears directly on the life of your car

Some oils thin out excessively under heat. Others are stopped by even chilly temperatures. The wide lubricating reach of New Iso-Vis extends over the thermometer from end to end and protects your engine in all weather.

ALL THE EVIDENCE points to this one conclusion. New Iso-Vis Motor Oil will give longer life to your car and lower maintenance costs.

Heat tests have shown that New Iso-Vis maintains its lubricating value at temperatures even higher than your engine can normally reach. Yet New Iso-Vis also lubricates effectively in cold weather. The wider lubricating range of this improved oil cuts wear and tear and prevents possibly serious damage to your car.

Less carbon formation in your engine is another proved advantage of New Iso-Vis. Tests show a carbon deposit 50% less than the average deposit of various premium-priced oils.

These advantages result from a new refining process. New Iso-Vis is wholly distilled. No undistilled parts of the crude are added because it has a sturdy body without them.

In addition, New Iso-Vis is the only motor oil that will not thin out in your crankcase. A special, patented process overcomes dilution troubles.

No other motor oil combines all of these advantages. Yet each of these points is vital to the perfect performance and long life of the modern high compression engine.

Let your motor car decide for itself which oil is best for it. Have the engine drained, flushed and filled with New Iso-Vis at any Standard Oil service station or dealer.

THAT NEW ISO-VIS never wears out is readily seen when the dirt is removed from "used" New Iso-Vis in this special laboratory filter.

COMPARE the carbon deposit of New Iso-Vis on the right with the deposits of three premium-priced oils made under the same conditions.

New ISO=VIS Motor Oil

30's a quart

The New Polarine also is produced by our new refining process—giving it a degree of lubricating efficiency which we believe is exceeded only by New Iso-Vis. The price is 25c a quart.

You can hear the clank of Phi Beta Kappa keys and the crackle of parchment diplomas on every movie set. An educational survey of America's fourth greatest industry made by the Will Hays organization shows that "throughout the studios, the bulk of all important work is now done by college graduates."

JACQUELINE ON HER OWN

by RICHARD STARR

SYNOPSIS: An exciting nocturnal adventure takes Jacqueline's thoughts from Teddy and other things. In a vain effort to win Jacqueline for the fortune he mistakenly believes she has inherited, Arthur Carew steals her car in the country and forcibly makes love to her. Jacqueline tricks him and escapes. Lost in the fog she sees a motor accident and rescues an old gentleman from beneath his automobile. She goes for aid and when the old man is made comfortable in the country doctor's home catches the mail train back to London after promising to see the grateful old gentleman again.

And he also always made the same little speech. "The world is full of a number of things." After that he would take her in his arms and hold her very tight. And that was perhaps the best part of the dream. But stern reality was a different matter. Exactly how stern it was she realized when she received a telephone call in her sitting-room at the Majestic, and found herself speaking with the manager of the bank. "Sorry to worry you, Miss Grey," the manager said urbanely. "But your account is overdrawn."

"Oh—I'm so awfully sorry," replied Jacqueline, in her new manner, which she managed very well. "Oh—that's quite all right, Miss Grey. Just thought I would draw your attention to it in case you had overlooked it. I always make a point in these cases of ringing up for instructions." He paused expectantly. "You see, Miss Grey," he went on, "we have just received your check made out to the management of the Majestic hotel for 60 pounds."

"But I thought that was paid," faltered Jacqueline. "I gave them that days ago." "They have only just paid it in. Your balance is only 20 pounds odd. So if you will send along another 40 pounds, with a little extra balance, everything will be quite in order. Sorry to have troubled you, Miss Grey."

To think that she could have spent all that money in so short a time. The 60 pounds had not lasted nearly so long as she had expected. Now it seemed there was nothing before her but to return to Bryans or to some similar establishment. At all costs her hotel bill must be paid—her future could wait. She spent all the rest of that day and the next interviewing unpleasant people who deal in second-hand wardrobes. It was a heart-breaking business. There was a vast and significant difference between buying things and selling them again, and the difference between the prices was appalling.

By the end of the second day she had disposed of practically everything she had bought, with the exception of the clothes she stood in and one small suitcase. They were sold at ruinous prices, but in the end she was able to send the 40 pounds to the bank, and enough to cover the further bill due from the hotel with a matter of 10 pounds or so over. She had already given notice to vacate her rooms that night, and it did not take her long to do her packing.

The suitcase was ready in her bedroom. She had only to put on her hat and coat, then she would walk out of the Majestic and out of this life of ease and elegance which she realized with all its drawbacks had been on the whole very much to her taste.

There was a gentle knock at the door. "Come in," said Jacqueline, without looking around. She was expecting the red-headed boy in buttons with her receipted bill. She heard the door open and somebody come into the room. "Bring it to me, please," she said. There was no reply, and she turned round in her chair. Teddy Montrose, with his hat in his hand, his coat over his arm and his white expanse of shirt shining, was standing in the room. Jacqueline stood up, white as chalk.

MONEY GROWING IN BANKS, BUT LOANS POINT DOWNWARD

Bankers Continue Financial Discipline as Rates Drop

BY J. C. BOYLE
Copyright, 1936, by Cons. Press
Washington—Money in the banks of the United States is growing steadily but many bankers are far from pleased at the progress of the piling up of profits.

In the last month demand deposits in the member banks of the federal reserve system have grown from $12,435,000,000 to $12,784,000,000, a gain of $349,000,000. Deposits in the same period gained $177,000,000, advantage from $27,228,000 to $27,599,000,000. Banks normally make money from lending money. But while the amount of deposits in the federal reserve banks gained $223,000,000, there was a drop of $12,000,000 in their loans and discounts.

Bankers say that failure to lend this money is due to the extraordinarily strict credit restrictions imposed by the banks. They add that banks will not consider making loans at present which were willing and eager to make a year ago. Bankers, on the other hand, say that they are willing to lend for legitimate and safe enterprises but that the rates of interest were far too loosely held in the past and loans were made which never should have been made.

They blame the business situation for the failure of businessmen to come into the market for money.

PROFITS NOT GROWING
Many unprejudiced spectators find something to support each contention, but the fact remains that the profits from bank operations are not growing at any astonishing rate.

The National Association of Creditors alludes to the attitude of the financiers as "credit discipline." The association urges that such discipline be strictly maintained when business resumes its interrupted upward course. This attitude is recommended both to commercial firms and banks.

"During the last eight months," says the special bulletin of the association, "there has been a lot of water squeezed out of the stock market, but also—and probably more important for business—there has been a lot of air squeezed out of the credit structure. The volume of mad plungers of yesterday have been forced to realize the fundamental importance of credit. Risks have been more carefully analyzed and credit passed under more judicious scrutiny than at any time during the last several years."

"A great many shabby accounts, the 'weak sisters' of the merchandizing game who have been hanging on to losing enterprises by virtue of the credit backing of their wholesale suppliers, have faded out of the picture. When the tide turns in two months, three months or six months, credit managers will do well to see that these weak accounts are not replaced by others of their kind."

They might as well resolve now that the discipline developed during the recent dark days shall be maintained and that credit standards shall be kept high."

If this discipline is maintained by the banks and commercial houses, some of the borrowers assert, the creditors may well find themselves in the attitude of the parent who says to child about to be punished: "This is going to hurt me far more than it does you." None-the-less, the bankers seem firm in their resolve that credit requirements shall not be loosened.

SOLID SOUTH STILL REMAINS UNBROKEN

primary this year gave Senator Morris Sheppard, a leader of the drys and co-author of the eighth amendment, a clear majority over his two opponents this morning in his re-nomination and election. One of his opponents, Robert L. Henry, campaigned on what was considered a wet platform. This would seem to indicate that Texas is not ready to subscribe to the viewpoint of New Jersey which recently gave Mr. Morrow an overwhelming victory.

VICTORY FOR DRY

It was stated at the time by leading drys that the Morrow primary was not significant since it was known that New Jersey was wet and it was argued that there would be time enough to talk about a change in sentiment with respect to prohibition when some dry state changed over to the wet side. Texas has run true to form by returning to the United States senate an ardent dry by a vote of nearly three to one over his nearest opponent—which compares favorably with the proportion by which Mr. Morrow achieved his triumph in New Jersey.

The Texas result, therefore, will have the paradoxical result of vindicating the contentions of the Al Smith group of the Democratic national leaders on the one hand who contended that the state would return to the party fold and bolstering the argument of the drys that the dry States are still dry and the wet States are still wet.

Revolution in Bolivia and New Leader

This picture, taken at the height of the short but successful revolution in Bolivia, shows a barrier erected by armed students who engaged royal troops in the streets of La Paz, the capital. Five hundred persons were killed in the fire fighting which marked the overthrow of the regime of Dr. Hernando Siles. The revolt was started when Dr. Siles resigned as president but, to evade the constitutional law that no Bolivian president may succeed himself, had installed a subservient cabinet to rule in his place.

Dictator of Bolivia now is General Don Carlos Blanco Galindo, above. This is the first picture of the rebel leader to reach this country since he headed the successful one-week revolution which overthrew the government of Dr. Hernando Siles. He has decreed the election of a constitutional assembly to supplant the military power which previously has governed Bolivia.

Less Activity Among 4-H Clubs Last Week With County Camp Session At Chicagami

With the 4-H club camp in session last week at Camp Chicagami, activity among the 4-H clubs of the county dwindled somewhat, reports received in the activities contest sponsored by the Appleton Post-Crescent and the county farm department indicate.

However, the reports received indicated that the club reporters, at least of those clubs which submitted reports last week, are endeavoring to improve their work. The reports were much better than those which had been received previously from the standpoint of clarity, completeness and neatness.

Perhaps the best report of the week was that submitted on the meeting of the Happy Hearts 4-H club at the home of Miss Dorothy Sievert, leader. The next best report was that submitted by the Cherry Hill 4-H club.

The Happy Hearts club met Tuesday evening with every member present. There were four mothers present as visitors. The girls discussed the 4-H club camp and although all members wanted to attend some of them will be unable to do so. It was decided, however, to have a full representation at the camp on Sunday, visitor's day. A short discussion on exhibiting articles at the Seymour fair took place but nothing definite was done. Then followed a short period of sewing on the articles which the girls are making as projects. The club leader said all the members are showing improvement. This was followed by a health talk on the functions and care of the teeth by Miss Dorothy Muenster.

After the health talk and a discussion on tooth pastes there was a judging demonstration on garments made by the first year members of the club. Winners in this demonstration were: Miss Marcella Ihde, first; Miss Lucille Sievert, second; Miss Dorothy Muenster, third and Miss Helen Muenster, honorable mention. A social meeting followed this work. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Dorothy Muenster, route 4, Seymour, on August 5.

All members also were present at the meeting of the Cherry Hill club at the schoolhouse, route 3, Seymour, Wednesday afternoon. Three demonstrations were given as follows: collars and cuffs by Elaine Foley and Vera Rusch; dyeing by Miss Muenster.

CHERRY KERNEL OIL MAY FIND READY USE

Washington—Recent studies showing that cherry-kernel oil would find ready use if it was produced in large quantities is of interest to Wisconsin cherry-growers, according to United States Department of Agriculture chemists, who did the work.

Estimates place the sour cherry poultage as 100,000,000 pounds from crops in Wisconsin, Michigan and New York. If oil was extracted from them, it would amount to more than 4,000,000 pounds, the workers say.

Cherry-kernel oil is similar to that from almond, apricot and peach kernels and agriculture experts say it would be of high value as a salad oil and also to be used in manufacture of cosmetics and some pharmaceutical preparations.

BALANCE UP BOOKS OF BROADCASTERS TO LEARN OF COST

Radio Commission Sends Financial Forms to 600 Stations

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1936, by Cons. Press
Washington—Broadcasters' books are being balanced by the federal radio authorities to learn what it costs to give to the nation its radio entertainment and to see just how much money the structure as a whole is making or losing.

This information is being obtained through financial forms sent to the entire roster of 600-odd stations by the federal radio commission, with instructions that they be filled out by Aug. 20. Profits and losses of stations, amounts expended for program entertainment, capital, interest, and all other pertinent financial data are being sought in this first financial survey ever undertaken by the commission, or by any other public or private agency.

By and large, broadcasting has been in the red ink since its advent nine years ago, according to the broadcasters themselves. An analysis made by the commission last December at the request of the senate, but based on meager information, was to the effect that the industry is not yet self-sustaining, but is gradually nearing that point, while numerous stations are realizing profits.

Already there have been flare-backs from broadcasters to this new survey of the commission. Some of the stations apparently feel that the commission is prying into the private affairs of the stations with which they should have no concern.

But the commission says it is undertaking the project in accordance with the terms of the radio law itself. The information will be held strictly confidential, and is sought only to better enable the commission to perform its job of administering radio. As a matter of fact that financial survey is not to be restricted to broadcasting alone, for the commission later intends to send financial forms to all other licensed users of the ether.

"We are seeking this financial information from stations pursuant to the terms of the radio act of 1927," said Commissioner William D. L. Starbuck, in commenting on the survey. "The commission intends to keep this information confidential and it will not be open for general public inspection. The commission wants it so that it can keep abreast of the growth of this remarkable industry, as it is required to do by law. To learn the financial status of stations will enable us to do our program entertainment, capital, interest, and all other pertinent financial data are being sought in this first financial survey ever undertaken by the commission, or by any other public or private agency."

For the first time we will know the actual profits and losses of stations and their physical values. We will know the combined value of broadcasting stations in the country and the amount of money expended to afford the American people the radio programs to which they listen."

The analysis transmitted to the senate by the commission last December was based on reports from 510 "average" broadcasting stations. Of this total 172 lost money in amounts ranging up to $10,000 or more over a one year period. The remaining 338 stations realized profits over the same monetary range.

Last year, the Columbia Broadcasting system reported it was out of red ink, and earning a nominal sum. The National Broadcasting company, however, has never announced an operating profit but it is evident that whatever profits it could have earned have been absorbed by expenditures in both programs and facilities. Columbia, likewise, might have realized greater profits but for its purchases of new stations and its constant growth and development in other phases of broadcasting.

STATE WHEAT STORAGE IS HIGHER, REPORT

Madison—Increased reports of wheat stored in elevators in Wisconsin were announced today by Walter Ebling, agricultural statistician connected with the U. S. department of agriculture stationed here. He estimated 140,000 bushels of wheat are stored in Wisconsin elevators as compared to 100,000 bushels a year ago and 55,000 bushels in 1925.

Official forms to all other licensed users of the ether.

"We are seeking this financial information from stations pursuant to the terms of the radio act of 1927," said Commissioner William D. L. Starbuck, in commenting on the survey. "The commission intends to keep this information confidential and it will not be open for general public inspection. May Use Air Mail For Official U. S. Dispatches

Washington—Bringing modern methods of speed into play to assist in its contacts with representatives in Latin America, the state department has adopted the air mail to expedite diplomatic correspondence with the sister Republics.

In anticipation of a rapid growth in this mode of transporting secret and confidential dispatches between Washington and the capitals of the southern republics, the department has asked the budget bureau to approve a sharp increase in the appropriation for diplomatic pouches shipped by mail.

Because of the present maximum charge of 10 cents for each half ounce of air mail between Washington and certain Latin American capitals, only the more important dispatches are sent by airplane. Department officials are making a survey of the cost to the government of carrying all diplomatic correspondence by air between North and Latin America. Preliminary estimates place the cost at about $1,000,000 annually. So it has been decided to continue for another year air mailing only dispatches which cannot wait for the slower schedules of the mail boats.

The time saved by air mail varies from five to fifteen days and many of the dispatches which now are air-mailed formerly were sent by cable. While the air service is much more expensive than boat service, a considerable sum thus is saved annually in cable tolls.

The heavy leather diplomatic pouches themselves weigh some three pounds each and experiments are being made with linen and lighter materials which might save considerable weight without sacrificing security.

FEED WHEAT TO STOCK AS CHEAPLY AS CORN
Madison—Under the present low market prices, wheat may be fed to livestock as cheaply as corn and other grains, according to Gustav Bohstedt, of the University of Wisconsin animal husbandry department.

"With wheat quoted at 55 cents a bushel in Chicago and corn at 52 cents a bushel, the price of the two is the same, pound for pound," Bohstedt asserts. "The feeding value of wheat is somewhat higher than that of corn so wheat is actually the cheaper feed of the two."

Generally, he says, wheat is 40 per cent higher than corn.

The government announces that the consumer dollar goes further now than in 1924. And faster, without question.

PARENTS ATTEND SPECIAL PROGRAM AT 4-H CLUB CAMP

300 People Present at Camp Chicagami on Sunday

About 300 people attended the parent's day program at the county 4-H club camp at Camp Chicagami on Lake Winnebago Sunday. Twenty-five boy members, who had been in camp since Thursday, ended their camp period Sunday and more than 40 girls entered camp. The girls will remain in camp until Wednesday. Gus Sell, county agent, and Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent, are in charge of the club activities.

The program opened at 11 o'clock Sunday morning with a community song service in the open. This was followed by an address by W. E. Smith, Appleton, who discussed Rocks on Which to Build. This was followed by another song service. A picnic lunch was served at noon. In the afternoon the club members presented a program which opened with songs. This was followed by the declamation of the 4-H club creed by all the club members. A. J. DuBois, one of the executives of the camp, which is owned by the scouts, gave a talk on scouting. Mr. DuBois is assisting in the management of the camp. A handicraft exhibit of articles made in camp by the club members then followed. Bernard Marasch demonstrated how to make a rope ladder. This was followed by a demonstration of first aid work by the girls of the Wide Awake Forward club. Four boy members then demonstrated rope making.

SHERWOOD MEXICANS GET 30 DAYS IN JAIL

Three Mexicans living near Sherwood will spend the next 30 days in Calumet-co jail as result of a drunk during which they got into an altercation with another Mexican and cut up the tires and smashed the windows on his car.

The incident happened Saturday when the three men attempted to arouse Tony Riuz, who was asleep in his car. When Riuz was awakened an argument started and as two of the men drew knives, Riuz fled into the woods. When he returned the tires on his car had been slashed and the windshield broken.

The men were arrested by the sheriff and arraigned before Justice John Hume, Chilton, who sent them to jail for 30 days. A charge of malicious destruction of property also may be filed against the men.

CUDAHY INHERITANCE TAX REFUND ORDERED

Milwaukee — (P) — County Judge M. S. Sheridan Monday signed an order on State Treasurer Solomon Levitan and County Treasurer Patrick McManus to pay 12 heirs of Patrick J. Cudahy a refund of $139,879 on inheritance taxes paid under the old "gifts in contemplation of death" statute.

The state's share of the refund is $129,333. A large amount of the total refund will go to the Patrick J. Cudahy Family corporation.

The order was the final one covering a total of $1,611,406 in gifts made by the packer before his death in 1919, the judge ruling the gifts were not made in contemplation of death, to aid the heirs in escaping payment of inheritance taxes.

Miss Eleanor Runion, Oak Park, Ill., who has been visiting the Misses Evelyn and Mary Kreiss here for the past three weeks, returned to her home Saturday by way of Ludington, Mich. She was accompanied by Miss Evelyn Kreiss, who stopped at the Epworth league camp at Ludington, where she will spend several days.

Charles Lockwood, only survivor of the famous Last Man's Club, is shown here at Stillwater, Minn., as he recited a bit of poetry just before drinking a toast to his departed comrades and officially disbanding the organization. From the bottle on the table, which was sparkling Burgundy when the club was formed, but which now has turned to vinegar, Lockwood sipped the toast. The club, composed of Civil War veterans, was organized in 1865. Left to right, are: Mrs. W. N. BRITISH ELECTION DATE PUZZLES SAGES

One Group Forecasts Vote in November — Another Expects Delay

London — (P) — Lobby experts at the house of commons are about equally divided in forecasting the date of the coming general election. One section is certain it will come in November, the other equally certain it won't happen before spring.

A cabinet minister, when asked which date he favored replied: "Safety first—I intend to be ready in November."

At a recent meeting of the labor party the prime minister mentioned the possibility of a general election toward the end of the year. Since that remark his government came within two votes of being defeated.

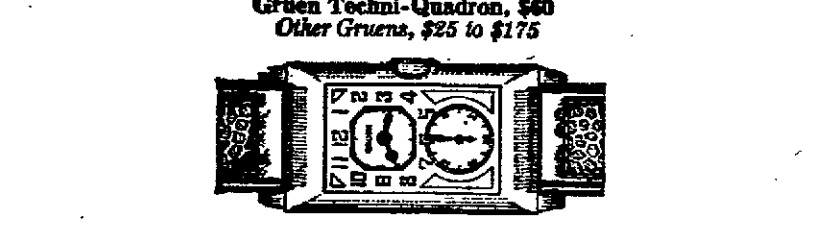

Many observers feel that a general election will be a genuine probability as soon as the new register of voters comes into operation the middle of October.

Two important events come in October, the imperial conference and the Indian round table conference. No matter how the Conservative party may regret that the imperial conference will be in the hands of the Socialist government, the opportunity for avoiding that contingency through a general election seems to have slipped by. No responsible party leader wants to make a political party question out of the Indian situation nor interfere with the round table conference by forcing a general election.

But there are many other reasons for an early election. The continued growth of unemployment under the present administration almost forces Ramsay MacDonald to ask for the country's verdict on his efforts. The government's majority in the house of commons on this issue has been reduced to 29. To complicate matters three distinct groups within the labor party itself are each putting forward different plans for solving the unemployment evil.

The voters will have a plethora of plans to choose from when the proposals of Lloyd George's Liberals and Stanley Baldwin's Conservatives are added to those of the Labor party.

Asks Hospital Policy Governing Future Needs Of Vets

LEGION CHIEF WOULD ASSURE CARE FOR ALL

Wants Disabled Soldiers to Have "Fighting Chance" for Recovery

Bismarck, N. D. —(P)—Adoption of a governmental hospital policy that contemplates the future needs of disabled World War veterans was urged by O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, before the annual state convention of the legion and its auxiliary here today.

"In view of the unfair neglect of the disabled, and the fact it is poor economy for the government to wait until an acute situation confronts it, the legion favors a hospital policy which contemplates a government agency to anticipate the need, and to provide facilities at any future date, as in 1925, 1940, and 1960, in order that a man can get just and fair care in time, perhaps, to give him a fighting chance for recovery," Commander Bodenhamer said.

"Based upon the recommendations of the Louisville convention, there is needed an additional appropriation to provide for the construction of some 4,500 more beds in order to take care of the waiting list of disabled men. The legion has bills before congress for this construction, and they should be enacted into law if these disabled men are to receive the hospital treatment from the federal government for which they fought and in whose behalf they became disabled."

SERVICE DURING YEAR
Early support of the legion membership last fall and winter resulted in outstanding achievements in legislation in behalf of the disabled, and in the year's program of service this year the commander said.

"Today the American legion stands at the highest peak of membership," Mr. Bodenhamer declared. "The preceding high total of more than 845,000 in 1929 was surpassed on July 21."

"We are close enough to the end of the legion year to recognize the fact that this year's membership last year strengthened the legion in its efforts for legislation on behalf of the disabled, and in its varied program of service to community, state and nation. Plans are under way now for a continuance of that policy of early enrollment of 1930 members for the 1931 work of the legion, and I hope to see this accomplished on Armistice day, the end of American legion week, which has been designated for this effort."

Veterans urged by Mr. Bodenhamer to apply the benefits of the adjusted compensation act if they had not done so.

FALSE ARREST IS CHARGE IN $50,000 SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Charging false arrest, Larry Lawrence, Chicago, has filed suit for $50,000 in circuit court at Milwaukee against the Bank of Black Creek, Black Creek, E. J. Zushko, Appleton, president, M. A. Schuh, Appleton, director; Mrs. George Peters, Black Creek, assistant cashier; the Wisconsin Bankers' association and A. N. Devoursney, banker's association investigator.

E. H. Stewart, another collector for the same company and Lawrence were working together. They visited the bank at Black Creek on the morning of the day the robbery occurred. Several months later the pair was apprehended at Durand, Wis., and held there for questioning. Legion Auxiliary Lauded As Great Agency For Peace

Bismarck, N. D. —(P)—A concrete contribution to the cause of world peace is being made by the women's auxiliary of the American Legion, Mrs. Donald MacRae, national president of the auxiliary, told a joint session of the legion and its auxiliary at the annual state convention here today.

"Through constant exchange of letters and personal contacts, the auxiliary is fostering an understanding of the American viewpoint abroad, and through study courses and programs is building a better understanding of the viewpoint of foreign nations in this country," she said.

"By helping replace international hate and fear with good will between the peoples of the different countries, the auxiliary believes it is making a concrete contribution to the cause of world peace."

Efforts are being made by the women's organization "to help lessen the likelihood of a conflict with foreign powers," Mrs. MacRae declared.

"It is doing this work in a very practical way," she continued. "It is striking at the roots of war which lie in distrust and lack of understanding between the peoples of different nations."

"Through the women's auxiliary Fidae, the inter-allied veterans federation, the auxiliary has direct contact with the women of nine European countries with which the United States was associated in the world war. It is working to maintain the spirit of friendship which was developed between the United States and these countries when our men fought side by side with their men in a common cause."

"The pacifist drive against our national defenses is being continued relentlessly this year but is meeting very determined and successful opposition from the American legion and auxiliary. As the radical pacifist efforts are concentrated largely upon winning the support of the country to their cause, the auxiliary is really holding the front line in this fight."

"The responsibility of holding the women of America to a sane view of the question of national defense falls largely on our auxiliary and the other women's patriotic organizations which are standing with us in our determination that America shall not be left without an adequate defense as long as war remains a possibility in the nation's future."

HEADS OF DOPE RINGS NABBED BY U. S. AGENTS

Twenty Arrests Made, Acting Federal Narcotics Director Reports

Washington —(P)—Harry J. Anslinger, acting director of narcotics, announced today that division agents had arrested the ringleaders of several gangs who have been importing millions of dollars worth of narcotics into this country from Turkey.

Twenty arrests have been made, he announced, and the leaders of each ring arrested.

The largest gang he said was headed by Tony Lapinto, who lives on Long Island and was known as Black Tony. Lapinto and Frank Desno were arrested in New York.

"Boss" Versace, prominent Norfolk, Va., Italian, and Joe Reporrella were arrested in Norfolk. Sam Ferrera, Joe Anzellone and Pete Deagostina were taken into custody in Washington. Narcotic agents reported they had 60 ounces of heroin in their possession.

The acting director said A. Swinford, Alis J. A. Kincaid, alias Reno Red, was captured in the Woolworth building in New York.

L. J. Williams, who lives on Long Island, but was taken into custody in New York, was described as the leader of a fifth gang and Frankie Fields, who narcotic agents said operated at Wilmington, Del., was also arrested in New York.

The investigation began about two months ago when an agent of one of the rings in Washington offered to sell drugs to a narcotic agent.

Agents then posed as drug peddlers with the result that they traced narcotics coming into the Atlantic seaboard to a Turkish source.

The narcotics director said the ring headed by Lapinto imported more than $1,000,000 in narcotics each year and Norfolk smugglers as much. He said the arrests were expected to deprive other drug peddlers of their sources of supply.

Another meeting is to be held in two weeks to vote on associate members. After the business meeting a lunch was served by a committee headed by Harvey Kittner.

ROHAN AGAIN WILL RUN FOR ASSEMBLY

Kaukauna Man to Seek Re-election to Office on Democratic Ticket

Assemblyman John J. Rohan, Kaukauna, who represents the second Outagamie-co district, Tuesday announced he would be a candidate for reelection on the Democratic ticket. Rohan secured his nomination papers Monday from John E. Hantseh, county clerk and started circulating them at once.

Rohan was elected on the Democratic ticket in 1928 and he served the county the last two years. He was called the "boy legislator" during the last two years because he was the youngest assemblyman in the law making body. Rohan is a graduate of Kaukauna high school and attended the University of Wisconsin while in Madison.

The incumbent is the fourth candidate to enter the race this year, although he is the only one seeking the Democratic nomination. The other three candidates are seeking the nomination on the Republican ticket. They are: William Bay, Kaukauna, E. J. Doersch, Seymour and Percy Silverwood, town of Oneida.

Miss Ruth Radtke, daughter of Mrs. Marie Radtke, 1108 N. Appleton-st., has returned to Milwaukee hospital after spending two weeks at her home and in Madison.

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
New York —(P)—When Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine sails under the ice to the north pole next summer, what will protect her from crashing into sub-surface blocks of ice?

This question, always the first asked about this project, was put to Lieut. Com. Soren Danenhower, who, with Simon Lake, the submarine builder, will rebuild the United States navy submarine O-12 for the voyage and himself sail her under the polar ice.

The answer is a law of nature, the operation of which Commander Danenhower found for himself last summer at the bottom of Long Island Sound in the tiny submarine Defender. It is an action of buoyancy which he said even few naval men have realized.

The Defender had wheels to run on the bottom. But when she hit a rock the wheels seemed to be rubber balls, bouncing her easily upward out of harm's way.

Her weight was close to nothing, that is, just a little heavier than the water. She was not greatly different from a balloon bouncing along.

The same principle, with the wheel over the sub's back, and the bouncing done downward, will be used under the ice. The wheel will run on a stocky trolley above the conning tower. The looser end of the trolley arm will be pivoted like an automobile shock absorber within the sub.

The ship's buoyancy will be about 2,000 pounds, sufficient to keep her trolley bumping lightly along the under surface of ice.

A protective arch—called a jumper bar, like a wartime net protective device—will curve above her back from bow to stern. Commander Danenhower said she will be strong enough to withstand collisions at four knots an hour—the highest underwater speed contemplated.

Even so, the sub is not made to crash icebergs nor the underwater ice crags called "rafts." These obstacles are not believed to exist in the polar sea.

In their request to the navy for the O-12, Wilkins and Danenhower wrote: "There are no icebergs of great size within the Arctic. Large pressure ridges have been observed only near the coast and the deepest of these extend only more than 100 feet under sea level."

The O-12 can descend 200 feet. Icebergs come from glaciers far south of the pole and float always southward. Borings by Nansen in the ice pack of this ocean showed the average thickness 10 feet.

"No one has yet seen great, unbroken ice-floes in that sea during summer," the letter says. Wilkins believes it will not even be necessary to rise in the "leads," dangerous places which wind closes like jaws.

He says floes always have quiet air openings in their interiors and but a few miles apart.

There will be a telescoping conning tower capable of thrusting upward through 10 feet of pack ice. There will be a new kind of periscope capable of boring upward through 50 feet of ice to get air for men and batteries.

There will be an air lock in the sub's bottom for divers to step out into the half-mile or more depth of water believed to cover the polar bottom.

SCHNEIDER TO FACE BATTLE IN PARTY WING

Dr. W. C. Sullivan Kaukauna Comes Out as Progressive Candidate

BY H. K. DERUS
For the first time since George J. Schneider, Appleton, was sent to Washington in 1922 to represent the Ninth Wisconsin district in congress as a Progressive Republican, he is faced with opposition from his own wing of the party. This opposition developed Monday when Dr. W. C. Sullivan, former mayor of Kaukauna, announced he would oppose Schneider in the primary race this fall.

Rumors have been prevalent for several months that Sullivan would be a candidate for congress, but it could not be definitely learned whether or he would jump to the Democratic or the Progressive Republican faction. There has been some discussion of Sullivan's running as a Democratic candidate, when the Ninth district Democrats met at Green Bay recently, but the leaders, it was said, objected to the Kaukauna man and decided to support the dyed-in-the-wool Democrats.

Political wise-acsers throughout the state hail Sullivan's candidacy as another rift in the Progressive ranks the third serious one to make its appearance in the last few weeks. However the Progressive Republicans here scoff at this idea. They claim that Schneider will have the unqualified endorsement of the entire Progressive Republican faction of the district and that Sullivan's chances of winning the nomination are practically nil.

The conservative wing of the Republican group is elated by this turn in affairs of the LaFollette faction.

CONSERVATIVES HAPPY
It believes that, with the Progressive vote being split, there is a possible chance for a Conservative candidate to pull through with the nomination. While the Kohler-Hoover faction of the G. O. P. party in the district has failed so far to name a candidate, it is said J. L. Johns is being considered. Mr. Johns was secretary to Governor Fred Zimmerman and he formerly was an attorney in Appleton. He still lives in Appleton, but is managing a manufacturing plant at Algoma now.

Progressive leaders of the district denied that there is a split in the ranks. They could not understand Dr. Sullivan's candidacy, however, as a Progressive.

"He hasn't a ghost of a chance, said Fred W. Bachman, Appleton, one of the Progressive leaders in this district. "The Progressives are solidly behind Congressman Schneider and we believe he will win the nomination without any difficulty." Sullivan's nomination, it is believed, is based on his enmity to Schneider because Schneider failed to come out against for Governor Al Smith for president in the 1928 campaign. Schneider took no stand in this election and didn't declare either for Hoover or Smith. His actions in that election received the approval of the Progressive leaders.

Both Sullivan and Schneider are vet and are backers of Senator John J. Blaine. Schneider has represented the ninth district since 1922 when he was elected to congress with the endorsement of Senator LaFollette. Before his election he was active in the labor groups.

Sullivan was mayor of Kaukauna for two terms but was defeated in the last election by E. W. Fargo. Sullivan also was active in Smith's campaign two years ago. He was a delegate to the Kansas City national Republican convention.

CREW AND BOAT ARE SAVED AFTER HITTING SUBMERGED DEADHEAD

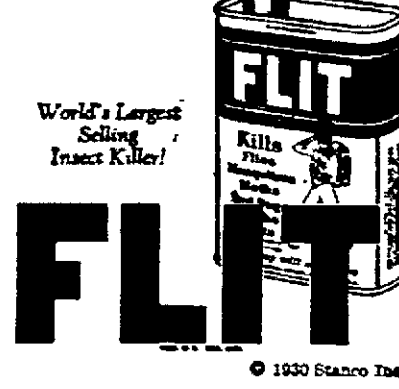

Four Appleton men escaped a ducking and an Appleton motorboat was saved from sinking by quick work on the part of the crew Saturday afternoon on the Wolf river near G. S. Landing.

The boat, Netahy, owned by County Judge Fred W. Heermann, was proceeding up the river when it struck a submerged deadhead and a large hole was torn in the bottom. Members of the party besides Judge Heermann were Earl M. Art, Zuehlke, Harry Law and M. Hucks, all of Appleton.

The crew immediately started working the boat to land and sand bar on shore where they succeeded in docking it where temporary repairs were made. The boat was taken back to O. S. Saturday and returned to Netahy Sunday where permanent repairs are to be made.

AUTO ASSESSMENT CARDS DUE SATURDAY

All automobile assessment cards should be returned to the office of George Peotter, city assessor by Saturday, he warned this morning. In case the cards are not in the assessor's hands by this time, it will be necessary for him to prepare the assessment rolls with the information he has at hand, and this sometimes results in misunderstandings and protests later on, he pointed out. If automobile owners have lost their cards, they may telephone the information about their cars to 2718, Mr. Peotter advised.

The first group of cards were mailed out by the assessor on May 1, while another group was put in the mails on June 1. All cards should have been returned by the end of June, according to Mr. Peotter. The cards are employed to furnish the assessor with the necessary information about automobiles in the city.

Need Organization For Enforcement, Drys Point Out

KEEP LIQUOR FROM WETS, THEY ADVISE

Appetite for Alcoholic Beverages Must Be Curbed, League Agrees

Need of organization and cooperation to insure enforcement of the eighteenth amendment was stressed in a address delivered at a dinner meeting of the Anti-Saloon league in the parlors of First Methodist Episcopal church Monday evening. Approximately 200 people attended.

The speakers at the dinner were: Warren J. Jones, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league; Dr. George Hammond, national headquarters, who spoke on the Best Way To Deal With Liquor Traffic; Dr. W. P. McGarvey, assistant superintendent; Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, national founder of the league; and Judson C. Rosebush, chairman of the committee which presented the dinner.

Dr. Jones presided in the early part of the meeting in place of Mr. Rosebush. Dr. Russell acted as toastmaster.

"Keep drinks away from the topers and the angry mob which is constantly yelling for 'right whines and beer,'" Dr. McGarvey said. "This will eliminate the factors which create the awful appetite for alcoholic beverages."

Dr. Hammond compared temperance and prohibition and stated that the Bible is a book on both, although those opposed to the Anti-Saloon league may argue to the contrary.

"CHURCH CHALLENGED"

"The constitution has been threatened and the church challenged," Dr. McGarvey said. The subject of his talk was An Appeal To Reason.

"Churches, schools, Parent-Teachers associations and all other educational agencies must be drafted into service to meet the challenge of the wets," he warned. "Every organization which is based on common sense and good reason should be prompted to enter the fight against the lawless wets, who are disrupting government and in whose veins flows blood of this water."

"No reform has ever been accomplished through selfish motives, but through heavy sacrifice. The wet aggregation is one of the most selfish groups of so-called American citizens in existence today. As long as their filthy desire and craving for alcohol is quenched, they are satisfied."

"The personal responsibility of every true American citizen is greater than this personal liberty for which the angry wet mob is constantly yelling. They have a poor conception of what real personal liberty is and yet they clamor all over each other trying to satisfy their thirsts."

"If America is to be founded entirely on personal liberty, it will short lived and will be dragged into the dust by the bootleggers and drunkards."

PARENTS WANDER, CLAIM

"The youth of today is being slandered and misrepresented by the older generation. This isn't so much a day of flaming youth as it is a day of wandering fathers and mothers."

"Instead of fathers and mothers singing 'Where is my wandering boy to night,' it is a case of 'where is my wandering mamma and papa to-night.'"

High school students, it is said, are bringing liquor to schools and keeping it in their lockers. That has been disproved by the national educational department. In one high school 1,000 lockers were opened and not a single bottle was found.

"The younger generation should be shown the evils of the old saloon. More motion pictures should be made depicting the old days when children and women stumbled over drunks on their way home on Saturday evenings. School programs should be based entirely on a dry platform."

"Hundreds of methods for solving the situation were tried during the 50 years, but none have proved so successful as the eighteenth amendment. Why not submit to this greater plan? Cooperation and organization can accomplish the feat."

WANT EQUAL ENFORCEMENT

"The dry league doesn't expect that the eighteenth amendment would be enforced any stricter than other amendments, but it is anxious to see it enforced on a level basis."

"The wet aggregation cry 'throw out the eighteenth amendment and conditions will be greatly relieved.' The fifth commandment says, 'Thou shalt not kill.' Would the killing situation be greatly relieved if the fifth commandment was thrown out?"

"It is reported divorces in Colorado are on the increase. Would the placing of a ban on marriage relieve the divorce situation. Positively, no marriage—no divorces."

"There is no consistency among the wets, and it can be verified," said, "Consistency thou art a fool." The greatest cry for repeal is coming from those who don't want the law enforced and who are breaking the amendment."

Every great movement needs at least two campaigns. Dr. Russell pointed out. "The first campaign in this great fight was for the eighteenth amendment. Now that we have it, we are starting a campaign to see that it is strictly enforced."

Dr. Russell compared the enactment of the eighteenth amendment with the abolition of slavery in the United States. He pointed out that to free the slaves many campaigns were necessary, many of which were hopelessly trodden in the dirt by opponents of Abraham Lincoln.

WETS GROW STRONGER

"The wets are getting stronger and stronger and their financial backing is powerful," he said. It is the fact that the 60 per cent American people take up arms to force this

RANGERS GUARD NEGRO, CONDEMNED TO DEATH

Miami, Texas.—(P)—Five Texas state rangers today guarded Jesse Lee Washington, Negro, sentenced to death in the electric chair for the slaying of Mrs. Henry Vaughan, at her farm home near Shamrock several weeks ago. Washington was on trial yesterday morning. He pleaded guilty and asked for the mercy of the court.

While officers kept the whereabouts of Washington secret after he had been spirited away in the face of a mob following the slaying, the group of men went through the Negro settlements of Oklahoma towns near the Texas border and drove the residents from their homes. They later permitted the Negroes to return.

IDEAL WEATHER TO PREVAIL WEDNESDAY

Ideal weather is the weatherman's offering for this vicinity for the next 24 hours. Skies will be clear and bright. The mercury is due for another drop.

Similar predictions have been circulated throughout the middlewest for the next 24 hours. Winds are shifting in the northwest, a good indication that cooler weather will continue.

At 6 o'clock Tuesday morning the mercury registered 64 degrees above zero, while at noon it registered 84 degrees above zero.

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR VISITS AT Y. M. C. A.

John Duffield, physical director of the Austin branch of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., was expected in Appleton Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday to visit at the local association building. Mr. Duffield is one of several candidates for the position of physical director at the Appleton Y. M. C. A.

Lawless crowd to submit to a program of common sense and decency. The 12th presidential campaign was a moral victory for the drys, but the 12th campaign will defeat all efforts to gain enforcement unless there is more organization and cooperation among dry workers.

"One of the most effective ways of bringing about this great reform movement is through education in the schools. The children of today must be shown the great evils of the old saloon. They are to be the voting citizens of tomorrow and upon them will rest the responsibilities of the nation."

Mr. Rosebush explained the Canadian system of liquor distribution and said it is detrimental to the nation.

"Many of the small Canadian outposts of the frontier, where men work and toil, living from hand to mouth, are real examples of what the Canadian system has done. In one small province, which apparently is devoid of any capital, the government liquor store took in $150,000 in one year. The population of the small hamlet was between 500 and 600 people."

"Similar conditions exist in hundreds of other Canadian towns and villages."

"Is that the kind of system America wants? Has it come to a place where real American citizens would sell their birthrights for a glass of brandy? Real American patriots will not tolerate the system and it will never be realized in this country."

VOTE FUND TO REBUILD AREA HIT BY QUAKE

Italian Finance, Interior and Public Works Departments Join Hands

Rome.—(P)—The council of ministers at noon today voted an appropriation of 100,000,000 lire, or about $5,230,000, to rebuild the stricken earthquake area of middle south Italy.

Premier Mussolini presided at the council of ministers and Secretary Turati attended.

The ministers ordered coordination of the finance, interior and public works departments for the reconstruction program.

The council rescinded taxes in the stricken area and enacted a moratorium on other forms of debt. Three inspectors were appointed for each damaged province.

The council voted expressions of thanks to foreign governments for their expressions of sympathy and to the various branches of military and civil life engaged in the work of relief.

It was reported to the council that the entire quarter of Ariano and Napulja constructed of 350 fairly stable houses had been cleared of wreckage and that the people, once convinced there was no further danger, were flocking back to their homes.

Construction for the homeless was begun today near Melfi and Canosa and the building being of such character that it can later be transformed into permanent lodgings.

Similar construction will be started tomorrow for Accadia, and Anzano, Lacedonia, Aquilona, Ariano, Villanueva, Delbattista and Montecastro.

STILL FIND SURVIVORS

With the continued digging into ruins have come remarkable evidences of ability of the human body to survive catastrophe. About 25 persons, among them a mother and baby, have been rescued alive after lying under heaps of lumber and stone from three days to nearly a week. Many were injured and nearly all were badly in need of food, but it is believed most of them will live.

A theory concerning the quake's geological effect is offered by Father G. B. Alfano, director of the Pompei observatory.

He said the earth shocks "broke the geological backbone of Italy," adding the Apennine mountains were cracked open and a fissure perhaps more than 60 miles long and a yard wide would be found.

He said the recent quake was one of an infinite number of earth movements which through the ages have pushed the Apennines up from the depths of the Mediterranean, and predicted periodical quake would follow, since the fissure will remain a weak spot subject to the pressure that has pushed the mountains upward since the Tertiary age.

WOULD PUT DAIRYING ON REAL FACT BASIS

Madison.—(P)—To put the dairy industry on a "fact" basis and do away with guesswork will be the object of study under direction of Walter H. Ebling, of the agricultural service.

Through a federal appropriation of $65,000, the study will be made possible, according to officials of the department of agriculture and markets, who announced the investigation.

Because Wisconsin is the leading dairy state in the union, the work will center here with investigation of price and feed of milk, condition of pastures, feeds used, disposition of cows and calves and the number of cows freshening each month.

Mr. Ebling has spent six months in a preliminary survey and has had 2,000 dairy reporters over Wisconsin collecting data for him.

"By the use of these facts it is hoped to present a definite dairy program which will enable the industry to adjust itself to changing situations," Mr. Ebling says.

He will go to Washington in August to confer with authorities there and then may go to New York and New England to aid research work there.

Plans Revised System To Get Unemployment Data determination of the amount of unemployment in the census taken April 1, give us for the first time an accurate base on which to formulate plans and a knowledge of the whole problem which we have never hitherto possessed.

"But if we were to attempt such an absolutely accurate determination of employment once every three months it would require a house to house canvass of the entire nation and would be practically the equivalent of the census and might cost us $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 per annum."

"On the other hand it has been long recognized that the present department of labor statistics are inadequate, the cost of which is about $150,000 per annum. In order to secure the information we need

A coroner's jury yesterday held that death of the infant was accidental, but R. W. Peterson, district attorney of Green Lake-co, directed that the manslaughter warrant be drawn.

SHERIFF SERIOUSLY HURT IN BATTLE WITH GUNMAN

Hill City, Kas.—(P)—Sheriff Joyce Blackman of Graham-co was shot and seriously wounded early today in a battle with Alfred (Red) Cummings whom he sought to arrest on a murder charge.

Cummings escaped in a stolen car with a hastily organized posse in pursuit. He was captured in a cornfield two miles south of Lenora and was found to be wounded in the hip.

Sheriff Blackman was in a hotel room at Morland in too serious a condition to be moved at present. One of Cummings' bullets struck him near the heart. Another pierced his arm. If his condition permits he will be taken by airplane to a hospital at Hays later in the day.

BIND YOUTH OVER FOR TRIAL FOR LARCENY

Herman Grisman, 20, Kaukauna, was bound over for trial Thursday on charges of larceny. Bonds for Grisman were set at $500 and up to noon he had not yet furnished them and was being held at the county jail.

speed of 72; capacity for 5,150,000 cubic feet of buoyant gas, and lifting power of 156 tons.

For this flight the airship carries 2,000 pounds of food, divided into three days' ordinary rations and one day's reserve ration, with an added supply for emergency. Even during a storm, which has never obtained in the foothold in Great Britain that it has in the United States, is included. The water supply, for drinking and washing, is 500 gallons.

Meals will be served in a dining room after preparation in a small kitchen. No smoking will be permitted, as the buoyant gas is of the inflammable type.

The airship carries wireless equipment for communication on both long and short waves with the call letters FGAAV. Direct communication will be maintained with the stations at Cardington and St. Hubert field, and with Louisville, Nova Scotia, after the mid-Atlantic is reached. The wave-lengths were not disclosed for fear amateurs might disrupt the regular communication.

GIARU KINSEY STOWAWAY

This is the first British airship to attempt an Atlantic crossing in 11 years. In 1919 the R-34 flew from Scotland to Mineola, N. Y., a distance of 3,200 miles, in 108 hours. It carried 31 persons, including a stowaway. Remembering that incident, officers yesterday established a careful watch to prevent anyone stowing away on the R-100.

Those making the trip apparently looked upon it as a joyous adventure.

The officers and distinguished passengers drove up in motor cars, laughing merrily as they chatted in the cold, grey hours of early morning, while members of the crew brought along their sweethearts to see the departure, most of them on bicycles.

The wife of Squadron Leader Booth drove her husband to the airship but left before the big dirigible was launched. Lady Burney stayed until after her husband disappeared in the R-100, however, and proclaimed her pride in Sir Denistoun's creation.

"Isn't she a beauty," Lady Burney exclaimed. "I would just love to be making the trip. In it's a shame that the air ministry won't let a woman take part in the voyage across the sea. Still I live in hope of crossing on her one day."

CARRY LUCKY TOKENS

A number of good luck tokens were carried by those on board the R-100 as it left this morning.

Sir Denistoun took a small ring which his wife had owned since she was a child.

"I gave it to him because it always brought me luck," Lady Burney explained.

Squadron Leader E. L. Johnston, the navigator, has a photograph of his wife which he had carried for 13 years.

"I have had good fortune since I met my wife," he remarked "and you can bet that same good fortune will be with us on this little trip."

As Sir Denistoun smoked a final cigar before embarking he said he believed the R-100 would come up to his expectations after years of designing.

"We can make the outward journey in 60 hours as we hope to," he said, "and the homeward trip in 50 it will prove that we are getting on top of the job."

"It brings the day appreciably nearer when airships will be commercial propositions. To my mind, the airship of the future will be one of about double the displacement of the R-100, with cruising speed of 55 to 60 miles an hour."

Major Scott, who flew the R-34 across the Atlantic and back, shares Sir Denistoun's confidence in the R-100.

"She is very easy to handle," he said, "and is perfectly steady even when traveling at top speed. I am certain that she will do well. Weather prospects are good and everything points to a pleasant crossing. If all goes well she should be in Montreal about dawn Friday."

EMBEZZLING CHARGES MADE AGAINST 2 MEN

Milwaukee.—(P)—John J. Tague, former president of the Supreme Casualty company, and W. E. Wolf, former secretary, today were at liberty under $5,000 bonds each on charges of embezzling about $45,000.

Warrants against them were sworn out by John A. Dorney, press secretary, who accused them of taking several separate amounts since last July. Both men denied the charge, stating they were forced to furnish their own money to keep the company's surplus and reserve at the level required by law and that the amounts taken back were reimbursements. They said the charge was an outgrowth of a struggle for control of the company.

DEMOCRATS INDORSE THREE FOR CONGRESS

Fond du Lac.—(P)—Determined to stir up some interest in the party cause, Democrats of the Sixth Congressional district last night endorsed three candidates for re-nomination to succeed the late Florian Lampert.

Dr. C. J. Coombs, Oshkosh, M. G. Kelly, Fond du Lac, and Michael K. Riley, Fond du Lac, were named. Dr. Coombs may not run.

Official is Shot

Anti-Semitic rioting in Roumania had an unexpected victim when a student, believed to be a Fascist anti-Semite, forced his way into the Ministry of the Interior at Bucharest and shot and wounded Constantin Angelescu, above, the acting minister. The would-be assassin was believed to have acted in revenge for the firm measures taken by the government against anti-Jewish disturbances.

FIND SLAYING OF TWO BANK ROBBERS JUSTIFIED

Glencross, S. D.—(P)—Verdict of "justifiable homicide" was returned today by the coroner's inquest into the killing of two bank bandits and the wounding of another from ambush here yesterday.

Coroner T. H. Doer of Dewey-co commended Sheriff Henry Johnson and P. J. Schirber, cashier of the Glencross State bank, for shooting down the bandits as they ran from the bank with $1,800 loot.

Warned that the bank would be robbed, Johnson and Schirber waited in ambush and shot and killed George Anderson of Timberlake and George DeBadin.

Melvin Scranton of Timberlake, seriously wounded by the officers, today was in a semi-conscious condition in a Moberg hospital, but was given a chance to recover.

THEATRE WILL OFFER BENEFIT MOVIE SHOW

In celebration of the Warner Brothers' silver anniversary month, the Appleton Theater management has announced a benefit matinee performance Friday, August 1, the entire proceeds of all admissions collected from the opening hour, 1 o'clock, until 6 o'clock to be given to the local Salvation Army post.

Warner Brothers theaters throughout the entire United States will hold similar benefits at the request of President Hoover who is starting off the anniversary event in Washington.

The program of entertainment at the matinee includes Dorothy Mackaill and Basil Rathbone in a light comedy, "The Flirting Widow," a story of England, with clever complications and sophisticated humor. There will also be a supporting show of short subjects, headed by the Watson Sisters in song and comic stories, Eddie Lambert in an eight-minute comedy sketch, "Royal Flush."

In choosing the Salvation Army as the recipient of the benefit, Mrs. John Goodland, Jr., commented on the useful and charitable work of the organization. It was chosen as being the most representative of local charity groups.

CLEAR UP TROUBLE CAUSED BY STORM

Most of the damage to telephone poles and wires, caused by the wind and electrical storm of Sunday evening, was cleared up by Wisconsin Telephone company repair crews by Monday evening, according to phone company officials. A few repairs of cut lines were made Tuesday, thus clearing up almost all of the trouble, it is reported.

PERSONALS

Edward Donahue, Milwaukee, who recently fractured two vertebrae in a fall down a stairway at his home returned to his duties here with the Wisconsin Adjustment and Inspection bureau Monday. He was confined to his bed for eight weeks following the accident.

Raymond Gardlin, Will Sommers, Ella and Rhoda Gardlin and Katherine Canavan, Hortonville, motored to Wild Rose Sunday where they visited the fish hatchery, returning by way of Chain-o-Lakes.

GOES TO EUROPE

A. Nielsen, Cincinnati, Ohio, who has visited here frequently, left recently on a trip to Europe. For a number of years he has visited during the summer in Appleton, but this year decided to take a trip to Europe instead. He has crossed the ocean several times. He is the uncle of Mrs. Carl Ganzlen, 1010 N. Union-st. and has other relatives in Darby, Grand Chute, and Greenville.

Werner St. Chilton Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner was at Chilton Tuesday where he was presiding in circuit court there in place of Judge Fred Besinger, who is making a tour of Europe. Judge Werner was accompanied by William R. Kreiss, circuit court reporter.

As far as Primo Carnera is concerned, that edict to reject the Italian army is just an ill draft that blows no good.

years it has gained a reputation for the cleanliness of its streets, a rare thing in Chinese cities, and for other progressive features. The value of the Yale college in China is located at Changsha.

Foreign wireless reports from Changsha said Communists staged a carnival of killing and looting. They apparently sacked virtually all of the city, which lies on the right bank of the Slang and then crossed to an island opposite town which heretofore has been immune to disorders. The foreign consulates and additional property are located on the island. An unconfirmed report said these had been looted and burned. A dispatch last night said its doom was considered sealed.

The fate of Yale in China college was not known. The value of the Standard Oil holdings there was estimated at $5,000,000.

ALL PARTS OF OLD AUTOMOBILES ARE RECLAIMED TODAY

Five Months of Experimental Work Proves Feasibility of Plan

Detroit.—(P)—Virtually every part of an aged automobile is salvaged in one way or another by modern methods.

After five months of experimental work, the practicability of reclaiming materials from old cars has been determined by the Ford Motor company.

More than 18,000 antiquated cars of 60 different makes were purchased from dealers and put through the dismantling process before it was announced that the plan was successful.

A force of 120 men dismantles these discarded automobiles, salvaging many parts in their entirety, converting others into useful articles, and sending the remainder through smelters to reclaim the steel and convert it again into up-to-date motorcars.

"Derelict" autos are bought from dealers at a fixed price of $20 a car, regardless of make, age or condition. The cars are brought to the company plant on trailers, or are towed there by other cars whose capacity for locomotion has not yet been spent. Thus far salvaging has been confined to the Detroit area.

At present three conveyors are used in dismantling operations. One is used for Ford cars and one for those of other makes. The third carries scrap to open hearth, furnaces, and salvaged material such as batteries, tires, and floor boards goes to waiting trucks.

Everything on the derelict car is salvaged, even grease is saved. Hubcaps are reclaimed for aluminum; ignition wire for copper; oil cups for brass, bushings for bronze and other bearings for babbit.

Many of the tools originally used to make some of the cars now are used to tear them down. Just before the skeleton of what once was an automobile reaches the furnace a 22 ton press flattens it out and its journey is done.

JEANNE EAGLES ESTATE NET VALUE IS $58,637

New York.—(P)—The estate of Jeanne Eagles, actress, announced yesterday by attorneys as amounting to approximately sixty thousand dollars, had a net value of $58,637, a transfer tax appraisal field today showed.

The actress left gross estate of $88,974, but it was reduced to the lower figure by debts and other deductions. Mrs. Julia Eagles of Kansas City, Mo., is the sole beneficiary. Mrs. Jeanne Eagles having left no will.

NATURAL GAS LINES PIPED 1,000 MILES; REVIVE INDUSTRY

Predict That Cities in 36 States Will Be Connected Eventually

Cleveland, O.—One of the notable industrial achievements of 1930 promises to be the great expansion of long distance pipe line transportation of natural gas, according to a survey made by the Union Trust Co. of Cleveland.

Plans contemplate laying thousands of miles of pipe line, involving outlays running into hundreds of millions, and designed to bring small cities to many great cities. Some authorities predict that eventually cities and towns of 10,000 and over in 36 states, embracing a population of 50,000,000 people, will have natural gas available.

REBIRTH SPECTACULAR
The development is all the more exceptional because only a few years ago the natural gas industry was regarded as virtually moribund. Its rebirth has been spectacular.

Approximately 80,000 miles of natural gas pipe line are laid throughout the country with a total investment of two billion dollars, and it is estimated that fully $250,000,000 will be invested in additional pipe lines in 1930 alone.

As a result a number of branches of industry are running full swing, particularly the makers of steel pipe and of pipe line equipment.

The consumption of natural gas increased from 662 billion cubic feet in 1921 to one trillion 900 billion cubic feet in 1929. The value of the annual output is approximately $450,000,000, the greatest growth in industry occurring last year.

The most fundamental consideration with reference to the natural gas industry involves a probable supply. Estimates vary widely, but most authorities are now in agreement that supplies are adequate for many years to come. One geologist estimates that there is enough natural gas in sight to last for a minimum of 165 years. Large interests are accepting this estimate as a basis for their heavy investments. Pipe lines can be amortized from earnings in less than 50 years.

Even if the natural gas supply should become exhausted, most of the large pipe lines now being laid would not be rendered useless because many of them are near coal fields. It would be possible to manufacture natural gas from cheap coal at the mines and to pipe such gas to the regular sources of consumption.

Natural gas is often found in conjunction with oil fields. In the past the greater part of gas in the oil fields has been utilized as pressure to push the oil to the surface and for the manufacture of carbon black. Millions of dollars worth of gas also have been allowed to escape into the air.

Now the oil producers realize that they have been permitting one of the most valuable sources of income to slip through their fingers. Recently one oil company, which is marketing its natural gas, is reported to have earned more from this activity than from its oil.

EXTENDING THE RANGE
Since 1927 the transportation of natural gas over a distance of 250 miles was regarded as a notable engineering accomplishment. In December, 1927, a long natural gas transmission line was started from the Texas Panhandle to Denver, Colo., a distance of 340 miles. Since then some of the major pipe line developments have been:

1. Memphis has been supplied with natural gas from Louisiana since December 23, 1928.

2. New Orleans is served with natural gas through an extension of the pipe line which formerly terminated at Baton Rouge.

3. The St. Louis industrial district is supplied with natural gas through a 450-mile pipe line from Louisiana.

4. A 420-mile pipe line has been built across Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia to deliver natural gas from Louisiana to Birmingham, Alabama, Atlanta, Georgia and other communities in these states.

5. Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah, are served with natural gas from Baxter Basin, Hawatha, and Clay Basin fields in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah.

Projects under recent consideration, tending to extend areas served with natural gas, include a 950-mile pipe line from the Amarillo field in Texas, to Chicago; the extension of the present pipe line to San Francisco northwards to Oregon and Washington; the extension of the pipe line system in the Rocky Mountain district to include Butte, Anaconda, and other communities; and the construction of necessary additions to serve mixed gas to certain cities along the Atlantic seaboard.

Impetus to the long distance transportation of gas has come largely through the improved methods of building steel pipe and of pipe line construction. Notable inventions in the steel industry making possible the production of pipe capable of withstanding enormous pressures and giving assurance against leaks have helped greatly.

Gas has a number of advantages as fuel. It has high heating value and permits great concentration of heat. Installation is simple and inexpensive. Fire risk low and maintenance of gas-burning equipment negligible. Soot, smoke, ashes and cinders are eliminated; labor costs lowered, and working conditions improved.

It is not to be expected that a development of the magnitude of that in natural gas would fail to effect in many profound ways other large industries.

A RAILROAD PROBLEM
Railroads, already confronted by competition of automobiles and trucks, are now faced with the prospect of great further expansion in another factor in transportation. If natural gas eventually is delivered by pipe lines to a large portion of the nation's population, the demand for, and railroad transportation of, coal are likely to suffer considerable reduction in volume. Moreover, the tendency now developing to use pipe lines for long distance transpor-

Gunners To Fight Pirates In Demand In Far East

Singapore — (P)—Gunners for duty on the high seas as a precaution against piracy are in great demand in the Far Eastern ports due to the recent announcement of the British government that all soldier guards were to be withdrawn from ships sailing the South Chinese waters.

"White Russians with military experience are being recruited in Singapore, Hongkong and Shanghai to take the places of the soldiers. The anti-pirate brigades will be under the command of non-commissioned officers of the British army."

British soldiers were placed on British vessels about three years ago at a time when the pirates were specializing on sea going vessels. In one raid alone several Britishers were killed and the pirates made off with a score or more of hostages and $50,000 in specie.

For centuries piracy has been rife along the south coast of China. It is still in this region that the pirates have their headquarters.

tation of gasoline and oil would indicate a future loss of tank car traffic for the roads.

Offsetting these tendencies over the immediate future, at least, is the stimulating factor occasioned by the large-scale shipments of steel pipe during the period of pipe line developments.

The iron and steel industry has begun to feel the impetus of the pipe line projects, the heavy demand for pipe being the outstanding feature of an otherwise dull market, while makers of pipe line equipment, including so-called "booster" stations, are running at full capacity.

Their lair is in the notorious Basu Bay, 50 miles northeast of Hongkong, where there are rugged mountain hills in the background to which the robbers withdraw when sought by armed forces from the water front.

Master minds work out details of the robbery of the larger ships. In some instances three to four months have been devoted by the pirate chiefs to arranging details of a single haul, which, when successful, pays most handsomely.

To cope with this situation, the British shipping interests have been compelled to spend much money and at the same time perfect a system designed to reduce the chances of piracy to a minimum.

Specialists have been engaged and a new form of gunman has gradually developed in this part of the world. He must not only be handy with a revolver but with a rifle as well, and all officers of ships plying these waters must be versed in the handling of firearms.

PARITY ASKED IN PASSENGER RATES ON I. C. C. ROAD

State Commission Charges Discrimination in Wisconsin

(Post-Crescent Wash. Bureau)
Washington—Charging discrimination in passing traffic rates against persons traveling to and from Wisconsin, the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin has filed a complaint with the I. C. C. asking parity in this respect with Illinois, Minnesota and Iowa.

The complaint lists 26 railroads which are alleged both to overcharge and to charge discriminating against travelers to and from the Badger State.

These railroads publish and maintain rates for passengers between Wisconsin and points in the lower peninsula of Michigan and intermediate points in Indiana and Ohio, via Chicago, which are formed by the sum of the two local rates plus a transfer charge of 55 cents at Chicago, the complaint states. At the same time, the railroads publish and maintain passenger fares between points in Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois, on one hand and points in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, via Chicago, which are made up of the sum of two local rates to and from Chicago, without the addition of a transfer charge. There are points in all states which are exceptions to this general rate building.

Such rates violate the Interstate Commerce Act, the complainant claims, in that the railroads charge less compensation for the transportation of passengers between points in Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and Illinois, Minnesota and Iowa, than they do for the transportation of passengers between Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and points in Wisconsin, although the services are substantially similar and carried on under like conditions.

The complaint claims that this undue and unreasonable preference or advantage to persons traveling to and from points in Illinois, Minnesota and Iowa, over persons traveling to and from Wisconsin, places so charged to and from Wisconsin, are unjust and unreasonable to the extent that the transfer charge is made to produce a greater rate than $3 when added to the local rate to or from Chicago.

The Railroad Commission asks the Interstate Commerce Commission to order the railroads to cease and desist in this undue preference and to establish rates which it considers reasonable and non-discriminatory.

BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT
An example of the value of business state government is afforded by the review by Governor Kohler of the major accomplishments of the reorganized full-time state highway commission. The new commission is a creation of the Kohler administration. In less than six months of the current year the very large sum of $170,000 was saved by advance purchase of cement through the state purchasing agent at a time when the market price of this important road building material was low. In comparison with the year 1928, the average cost of concrete highway construction has been reduced from $30,579 per mile to $26,250 or more than $4,000 per mile. This is a saving of 16 per cent in highway cost. The reduced figure includes an allowance of $600 per mile for culverts and approaches to farms which in previous years were not included.

This great reduction in construction cost has been brought about by more competent handling of highway construction and building operations. It illustrates the difference between political and business direction of public improvements. It shows what can be done where there is a maximum of efficiency and intelligent purpose to serve the taxpayers and where there is a minimum of interference by politicians. It is the kind of government that benefits the taxpayers in dollars and cents by giving them more and better results for their money. Carried to its logical conclusion it means in this one department alone possible savings of millions of dollars. The same principle extended to other departments would save other millions.

Governor Kohler is now asking for a permanent through road program for Wisconsin, which contemplates at least three complete through highways from South to North and four from East to West. To accomplish this he would have the law authorize at state expense the construction of sections and gaps in counties unable to build hard surfaced highways from their own resources. Unless this policy is adopted it would mean a delay of from ten to twenty years before such a system could be completed. The governor also wishes to amend the law providing for maintenance of roads to meet the requirements of the federal aid act. If this is done it will increase federal appropriations available to Wisconsin from $1,800,000 to $3,000,000 per year. Here we have a program of highway development and highway economy of the utmost importance to the people of Wisconsin. It is the product of careful thought, business judgment and practical experience. It is the kind of administration the state may receive from competent business executives. It, along with a natural extension into other fields of public service, is worth more than all the loose talk we hear in campaign years about "reforms" and "restoration of government to the people," together with promises never fulfilled and extreme theories of political philosophy.

BRITISH TAXES
The British government has adopted another $4,000,000,000 budget. It is a couple of hundred millions bigger than recent budgets, which have been breaking the nation's back. It is found necessary to impose still higher taxes on incomes already paying taxes several times as high as ours, and new taxes on the brewing industry. Much of the money has to go unproductively for unemployment doles. Reminding us again that with all our natural grumbling about taxes, we Americans hardly know what taxation is. The British, with one-third of our population and one-fourth or maybe one-fifth of our wealth, are paying just about as much for government as we are.

DRYS ON DEFENSIVE
The country's foremost prohibition leaders have signed a new declaration of policy repudiating "all enforcement practices that do not safeguard every personal right guaranteed by the constitution." This is the first public admission by the dry cause that the eighteenth amendment as it has operated is offensive, sumptuary legislation. It is a confession that the policy of the Anti-Saloon league, which included drastic invasion of the home and interference with personal habits, has been a mistake. The shooting of innocent persons on mere suspicion, conviction of individuals for trivial violations of the law, coupled with severe punishment, snooping and other forms of offensive inquisition, have done much to discredit prohibition. That they and other factors have brought about an enormous revolution of sentiment is proved by repeal of state enforcement acts, by referendums on the question of legalizing beer and light wines and by such tests of public opinion as was afforded by the Literary Digest poll.

The change of attitude on the part of the dries is therefore emphatically defensive. It has been brought about by a rapidly growing popular conviction that the eighteenth amendment was a mistake and ought to be repealed. In addition there was the favorable reaction to the position taken by Dwight Morrow in his famous declaration against prohibition. Here was the first break by an eminent Republican, a man so politically powerful in fact that he is likely to be a strong contender for the presidency.

There is no denying that prohibition enforcement has been a senseless and scandalous procedure from the beginning. Not only has it compromised the good faith of the federal government, but it has been exercised in a manner calculated to disgust reasonable thinking men and women. Whether prohibition could have been more successfully administered by a rational and consistent policy, and whether the public could have been educated to uphold and obey the law, are questions on which it is idle to speculate at this late date. So much water has gone over the dam and such bitter feeling engendered that no one can say what would have resulted. However this may be, it does not affect the proposition that the eighteenth amendment was an unwise experiment in government and that it was not the correct approach to temperance and a sound solution of the liquor problem.

Undoubtedly the new declaration of dry policy coincides with the views of the Hoover administration, which has made a visible effort to regain the lost prestige of the eighteenth amendment by more moderate and sensible enforcement and by appeal to the moral consciousness of the nation. Coincident with this latest dry pronouncement we find the decision of the administration to place at the head of the Republican National committee Senator Fess of Ohio, a confirmed dry. This can only mean that the Republican party so long as it continues with Mr. Hoover as its leader will not deviate from the platform of 1928, and proposes to insist upon a further trial of the noble experiment. Gradually but slowly the controversy is simmering down to a concrete basis in which a decision may be made with a measure of intelligence and with less emotion.

FORGETFUL INVESTORS
Apparently a great many of the people who bought Liberty Bonds were inspired more by patriotism than by a desire to put their money in a sound investment.

At any rate, the Treasury Department announces that buyers of such bonds are losing about $1,000,000 a year in interest through failure to redeem bonds on which interest has ceased. More than $37,000,000 worth of federal securities which have ceased to bear interest are still in the hands of investors.

DAWGONNIT
We're losing every inch of faith we ever had in the weather man. Here he predicts that rain will end the heat wave. We have a lot of rain and where do we end up? The heat wave comes bouncing back again, and everyone sits around looking completely miserable. At the rate we're going, we won't have to worry about next winter—the streets and sidewalks and the countryside will have stored up so much heat that the snow will go up in steam as it hits. Picture our concern as we all walk around taking involuntary Turkish baths. (Explanation—we aren't sure whether it's the heat wave or just the fact that it's Monday as we write this. Something must have done it.)

Yeah, Maybe They Took in $4.00
A railroad in Pennsylvania has asked the public service commission for permission to discontinue operating. Receipts, it is claimed, amounted to $3.58 last year. Check up on that—maybe they're trying to conceal illegal profits.

Dear Jonah:
Now I've simply got to rise to the occasion (as that spelled right?) and second Horace's motion for sending our dear friend Hortense a long way from pen and ink or a type-writer or other method of self expression. I really can't offer much toward this trip... but I'll give seven (7c) cents toward the aforementioned trip.

Why ask us how to spell? We work for a newspaper.

Hortense is still missing. We're beginning to wonder.

What Newspaperman Wears a White Collar?
Just to show you that you can't always believe the movies about newspapermen, the reports from a liquor cure institute show that out of 208 victims holding white collar jobs, only five are newspapermen.

Today's Anniversary
MUSSOLINI'S BIRTH
On July 29, 1883, Benito Mussolini, Italian prime minister and leader of the Fascists, was born at Dovia, in the province of Forli, the son of a blacksmith.
At the age of 18, after he had received a normal school education, he obtained an appointment at Gualtiera. He soon tired of teaching, however, and decided to go to Switzerland to improve his education. He interested himself in labor movements there but was later expelled for his extreme socialist views. So firm in his convictions was he that he narrowly escaped hanging for his utterances against the Austrian government when he went to Trentino.
During the war he abandoned Socialism and pursued a strictly nationalist and patriotic policy, founding a newspaper which fought against neutrality. He saw active service in the war and was seriously wounded.
After his return to civil life he began a campaign against Bolshevism by organizing the famous Fascists, originally a group of intellectuals opposed to Bolshevism. The group became a party in 1922 and succeeded in making Mussolini prime minister and virtually dictator of Italy. In this capacity, he is now devoting himself to the strengthening of Italy's economic and political situation.

TWO CASES OF CHRONIC RUNNING EAR AND MASTOIDITIS
A woman 32 years old had had a running ear since an attack of scarlet fever in childhood. In the last few years she had had earaches at times when the discharge was suppressed. The discharge had a foul odor and was very profuse. She kept the ear plugged with cotton to protect her clothing and bed clothing from being soiled by the discharge. It is always bad to wear a plug of cotton in a running ear. The mischievous and dangerous germs are encouraged by such coddling; whereas free ventilation of the ear always discourages the harmful germs. I cannot impress this fact too firmly upon readers who have running ear; or upon readers who have children with such trouble. How often we see a misguided victim of some chronic ear trouble wearing a plug of cotton, even when there is no external discharge, but merely with a vague idea that it protects the ear against "taking cold." Our old fogey health authorities are to blame for that. Besides the offensive ear discharge, which restricted the woman's social life, and the earaches, she had been troubled with buzzing noise in the affected ear for 15 years.
Examination of the ear showed a large polyp occluding the canal. The doctor removed this with snare. Then he was able to see that the drum membrane and part of the bones of the middle ear were missing — had been destroyed by the years of suppuration. After this the ear remained dry for several weeks, then discharged profusely again for a time and the patient complained of a new symptom, dizziness. Now the doctor advised operation, but the patient preferred to continue palliative treatment a while, as she felt sure she had improved after removal of the polyp and the medicinal applications the doctor made. So eventually she was cured, that is the ear discharge ceased and she had no further trouble.
Another woman aged 44 had acute tonsillitis in March, and developed earache after two days of sore throat and an ear discharge the third day. Then her doctor incised the ear drum to encourage proper drainage. This is a standard practice, too, speaking as a mere general practitioner, not an ear specialist. I am skeptical about its value. Two days later the patient was sick and no mistake, fever, profuse mucopurulent discharge from ear, intense stuffiness of nose, turbinate in nose found extremely boggy. After several days of this, with irregular fever, X-ray picture indicated involvement of the mastoid cells, and operation was done. No pus found on opening into the mastoid spaces behind the ear. So the surgeon went on, exposing the dura (brain covering) and finding it normal and poking about here and there in hope of getting at the obscure area of infection—commendable enough as a general rule. I confess I don't savor the practice in mastoid surgery — and one thing and another. After a prolonged convalescence the patient made a good recovery.
I was going to add a description of a third case in which similar surgical intervention proved similarly unwarranted and the patient presently died. But let us draw the curtain.

The Tynmites
By Hal Cochran
THE Tynmites had had their fill of Baghdad. It was quite a thrill to travel round the city 'cause the scenes were very queer. The narrow streets that wound in around in all parts of the town were found. And far, far down the Tigris they could gaze, when it was clear. They'd had a boat ride all along the river front mid current strong, but everyone enjoyed it. They decided to repeat this wondrous trip, so off they went and 'bout a half hour was spent in drifting 'round and singing songs that sounded very sweet.
The folks on shore gave them a hand because they thought the music grand. One fellow shouted "Sing again." And so they sang one line. "Wee, happy Tynmites are we who travel round, the sights to see." "We're glad we came to Bagdad 'cause we thank your city's fine."
Once more the clapping filled the air. "I guess our singing's rather rare," said little Clowzy Tynmite. The others all agreed. The Travel Man said, "Yes, you're grand, but come, we must go back to land." The Tynmites obeyed him and returned to shore with speed.
"Where are we going now?" asked one. "What can we do to have more fun? We've seen enough of Bagdad. Let's be on our merry way." "All right," replied the Travel Man. "Another town we'll shortly scan. It's far across the desert and we'll start this very day."
"How will we travel?" Clowzy cried. "We'll have to have some way to ride." The Travel Man just grinned and said, "By caravan we'll go." A camel train soon was brought out and mid a very merry shout, the Tynmites climbed aboard. My, but the camels traveled slow.
(The Tynmites see more marvellous scenery in the next story.)
The fellow who named the new planet "Pluto" must have been keenly interested in gastronomy.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—Only once or twice during any session of congress do senators and representatives inaugurate a brand new policy for the country.
Most of their work consists in developing old ones — a broadening here, a cutting down there.
But the congress which has just passed into history did start one — one that is entirely new, and one that is likely to have a far-reaching effect in the years to come on the cultural status of the country.
It bought $1,500,000 worth of incunabula.

Incunabula is rare stuff. There's a lot of it in the British Museum, in the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris, and in private collections over the world, but up until now Uncle Sam has had very little.
Now that he has some, it is fairly safe to say that he will be in the market for more. In fact, it is fairly predicted that now that he has been bitten by the bug, he will spend millions of dollars in the future purchasing more incunabula.

OLD BIBLES
Incunabula is nothing more than rare printed things. Or, to be more precise, books and other printed things that were produced before the year 1500.

A German by the name of Dr. Otto Vollbehr arrived in this country not so long ago with his collection.
Among these 3,000 pieces was a Bible, printed in Latin and on vellum by Johann Gutenberg somewhere in the period between 1450 and 1455. It is one of the three perfect copies known to have survived.

Ross Collins, a member of congress from Mississippi, took a look at this Gutenberg Bible, and was so impressed with it and the other pieces in Dr. Vollbehr's collection, that he promptly introduced a bill calling on the government to buy the collection and have it placed in the Library of Congress.

All agreed that it would be a near tragedy to permit the collection to pass into other hands. But at the same time they debated the wisdom of Uncle Sam joining the army of collectors of rarities.
EXPENSIVE BUY
The Library of Congress always has been a library of service. It has been slow to purchase those things where rarity is the chief factor.

Not so long ago a notable Chinese collection was secured which some thought came very near to being valuable from the collector's standpoint of use.

Study of this collection has revealed that important information bearing upon agriculture has been disclosed which will likely prove of great benefit to farmers.

So, despite the fact that this collection cost more than 10 times what the Library gets each year for the purchase of books, congress voted to buy it.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York — The only golfers in the world who can look up from their putting and see the skyline of Manhattan are the officers of the army post on Governor's island.
For their private course overlooks the bay, the Battery and the massed towers of Wall street, a few minutes' ferry boat away.
The difference between the packed pavements of lower Broadway and the streets of Fort Jay, the island post is as great as the distance is short.
Some day Governor's island may be an airport on the route of commerce that centers below the skyline which is its principal view.
But now it is the headquarters of the Second Corps area of the army and the post of the Sixteenth Infantry.

Its 173 acres are populated by about 100 officers and some 700 men.

TROOPS AT NATION'S GATES
These live, for the most part, a quiet village life, golfing, swimming, playing tennis, parading, going to church on Sunday and watching the prisoners of Castle Williams, the disciplinary barracks, do the work.

It's a sleepy place, where the whistles of boats and the bells of hours are the only noisemakers, except when a salute is fired to honor a visiting foreign dignitary's passage across the bay.

Governor's island was bought from the Indians in 1627. In 1593 it was set aside as part of the fort of New York for the benefit of "His Majesty's Governors." Thus it got its present name.

POSSIBLE AIRPORT
As a defender of the nation's gateway, Governor's island had become useless by the time of the Spanish war. But its soldiery has been a convenience as recently as the great Wall street explosion, when troops were rushed within 30 minutes to guard the sub-treasury.

Since the development of commercial aviation, the isle has been looked upon as a possible site for an airport, regarded as ideal by many because of its proximity to the busiest part of Manhattan.

Planes are not unfamiliar to it, for it was the scene of some of the first notable flights in this country. Glenn H. Curtiss landed there on his Albany-to-New York flight on May 29, 1910.

Oddly enough, however, with its accessibility, its quaint old fortress and its marvelous view of the most famous skyline in the world, it rarely is visited by tourists. And the ride on the army's ferryboat is free!

BARBS

It wouldn't surprise us if this talk about a United States of Europe were just another bit of propaganda, to prevent the American tourist from becoming homesick.

Maybe the controversy as to whether it is proper to say "down in Maine" or "up in Maine" can be decided from the manner in which the Lindberghs travel to their summer home in that state.

There may be news from the capital even after the senate adjourns. Correspondents there are like as not to throw another one of those spelling bees.

Two French girls propose to pedal a hydro-cycle across the English channel. They'll find it pretty rough sport.

A movie actress was recently arrested for driving in her automobile without clothes on. What a shame!

GOOD MEDICAL CARE IS GIVEN PRISONERS

Madison —(AP)— On all possible aid to the health, industrial training, and education of Wisconsin's prison population rests the rehabilitation of the outcast of society. Warden Oscar Lee, of the Wisconsin State prison at Waupun, said in a radio address over WHA, University of Wisconsin station, here yesterday.

Regarding health, Warden Lee said the prison offers the best of medical and surgical attention, besides carrying on an intensive program to remedy physical defects of convicts.

"Our greatest attention should be concentrated on the untrained, the careless, and the indifferent," he said in speaking of the program of industrial training being carried on. "Any man who expects to hold a job today must do an honest day's work and do it well. If he has not been trained to do so before he enters prison, he should be so trained before he leaves."

Warden Lee deplored the movement that aims to thwart the use of prison-made goods. If the prison can not keep its inmates busy, he said, it makes for "idlers, loafers, and criminals." As a result, he expressed the hope that the next session of the legislature will do its part to keep the state prisoners employed.

One of the first duties of the state is to educate its prisoners, Mr. Lee said. The prison offers common school courses, and for advanced prisoners, work with the extension division of the University of Wisconsin is being carried forward.

Warden Lee's talk was the first of a series that are to be given over WHA during the next month. Other speakers will include Miss Harriet C. Long, chief of the Wisconsin traveling library, and Chester Allen, field workers for the extension division.

Hints For The Shopper

Written for NEA Service

Although ice has long been the accepted basis of household refrigeration, other effective agencies have been developed. In considering these, the shopper should remember that the boxes are substantially the same, whatever the chilling agent may be. Therefore, the questions of insulation, lining, arrangement of food chambers, and design of doors are just as pertinent whether one is selecting an old-fashioned ice box or a modern mechanical refrigerator for the important task of keeping foodstuffs cool.

The refrigerating agent most nearly resembling ice is the so-called dry ice, which has been introduced to the public by soda fountains in the packing of ice cream. This is nothing but solidified carbon dioxide which comes in glistening white cakes at an internal temperature of 112 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. A pound of this substance can do the work of 15 pounds of ice, and in the process of "melting" it changes from its solid state directly into gas; thus there is no problem of water disposal as there is with ice.

The other refrigerating agencies are in reality small ice-making units. They are driven either by electricity or gas, and both are operated by thermostatic control, thus assuring a fixed temperature within the food chambers at all times.

SUE waited for Jack to finish his statement. He had just said that he had had lunch that day with Ruth Bentley.

"She had a three-column picture of Barbara ready for her Sunday society layout and a long story about her. . . . you know, the kind that includes everything from her kindergarten training to the kind of hangings she'll have in the breakfast room. Then she got word of the fact that the engagement's off and couldn't reach Barbara. She cut off town. So she asked me to meet her."

"Do you think she'll marry Jean Brady?" Sue asked quickly. Jack wasn't going to marry Barbara New she knew. Before she could only imagine and hope.

"I don't know. Brady seems like a pretty good fellow. She makes him for blindman's bluff or he wouldn't have interfered. But I'm afraid she did. I think she could make his happy, for she wouldn't have sacrificed."

Mrs. Merryman's guests left and Sue took Jack upstairs to see her mother. She noticed that the five-pound box of candy which he handed her with a laughing remark bore the address of the town's most expensive chocolate shop. Her mother looked younger, prettier, happier than she had for years and years.

Sue looked down at her own hands. There was a red blister on one thumb where a frying egg had splattered. The skin had been rubbed from two knuckles and doughnut grease had left a red badge across one slender palm. One nail was broken. She hid her hands. But her eyes were clear and blue and rested on Jack talked on and on. Twilight came and deepened. The lights were making rose pools in the bedroom and Sue went downstairs to see if her dinner was cooking. She slipped into a clean pink checked apron and hummed a glad little song. Even simple things, common tasks, could be happy tasks when one's heart was glad. A shadow darkened the doorway.

My Neighbor Says--

Do not overdress your baby on hot days. A diaper and a sleeveless shirt to fasten it to are all the little baby needs in the daytime.

A tasteless sandwich will be greatly improved with a dash of horseradish or table sauce.

If your recipe calls for sweet milk and you find your milk has soured, you can use it by adding a teaspoon of soda to each cup called for. Follow your recipe otherwise.

A sheet wrung out of cold water and hung before a bedroom window does wonders in lowering the temperature in hot weather. Holding the wrists under the cold water and allowing water to run over them a few seconds is most refreshing. A water bottle filled with cold or ice water on the wrists of one confined in bed is fine.

"I must go now, Sue. I've stayed much later than I intended."

"But I thought you were staying to dinner?" she couldn't keep the disappointment out of her voice. "We have caramel pie and you always liked it."

"I have to go to a dinner at the club, but I could try your pie," he answered teasingly. "Just to see if it's as good as your mother's."

Sue cut a generous slice of the golden mixture with its creamy, frothy top and put it on a plate for him. Then she leaned against the edge of the table while he ate it.

"I'm going away for a month or so, right after Christmas," he interrupted the pie-eating process to state.

"You are?" Sue hoped she was not too curious.

"Dad needs a vacation and he's finally promised to go south for some golf and fishing. If his overworked son will accompany him." He put the down. "That's mighty good pie, Sue. The southern girls have curls and graces. And you ought to see the lantern they hang up for the moon."

Sue smiled but her heart was asking a question. Would he come back to her?

WE WOMEN

by Betty Brainerd

Anesthetizing Love

"Dear Betty Brainerd: It is with the utmost interest that I have been reading your sound advice to others. Perhaps you will be kind enough to help a man in trouble."

"I am middle-aged and have been paying attention to a middle-aged lady for a long time. We are engaged but have never married because her mother is an invalid and she had to take care of her. Her mother is still living."

"I always felt that she is not the girl for me, in fact I have very little love for her, but she says that she loves me very dearly and if I do not marry her she will commit suicide. I am afraid she will."

"In the meantime her sister has come home and we are deeply in love and hope to get married some time. They both live in the same house and I am at a loss what to do how to proceed. I cannot marry the first girl because I realize that I never would be happy, but I am greatly disturbed by her threat. Kindly advise me."

The revelation of your own character should disturb you more than the threat of this unhappy woman. Although you always felt she was not the girl for you, you asked her to become your wife.

For long years—years in which she might have found someone else to lead you not led her to cherish her magic illusion of happiness with you, you allowed the promise to stand.

Our Children

By Anglo Patri

It is very trying to have a child speak to one rudely, sharply, impudently. We are very likely to swell with anger, to rage in righteous wrath. It is a dreadful affront, thus answering back. Well, let's see.

A child in early adolescence is in a hard place. His and her personality is peering over the shoulders of childhood, that pleasant time when children are utterly dependent upon us, wait for our word and receive it as law. That personality is their precious, most precious heritage. Everybody they meet is doing this utmost to rob them of it.

"Don't close your eyes when you speak, child." Why do you always say things like that? I don't see how you do it. "Bliss is a very unbecoming color for you. I like you in red much better." Why in the world do you ask that sort of question? I can't see a thing in red. "You're simply wasting time studying line drawings. Why don't you take up something sensible like bookmaking?"

How would you like to have a barrage of criticism levelled at you all day long? You couldn't stand it for an hour. Think of the patience, the endurance of the children who are forced to stand it all day long and day after day. Being a child invites criticism and advice and commands. Being a child means to struggle to preserve what little of individuality of precious personality, you can salvage from the battle with the grown-ups.

I have exaggerated the situation a bit, in your case, perhaps. You would not do that to a child. I sincerely trust you would not. But, if a child turns on you and talks back rudely, sharply, impudently, WE WOMEN review your relations with that child in the light of what I have said. There comes a time when the youngster can stand it no longer and he rebels. He must have a chance to try himself out at any cost.

A child needs help, guidance, control. No child can grow up without the wise guidance of parents and teachers. There are times when the best of children must be held firmly to the right course, by his wise elders. If the early training, if the early relationships have been established on a sane, sound, kindly, appreciative basis there will be no question of impudence. The child and parent will be able to confer without antagonism. It is only when the right attitude has not been established, when the elders take a stand on their dignity, their years, their authority, that there can be any question of impudence. One is never impudent, one cannot be, to one who treats him on his own friendly level.

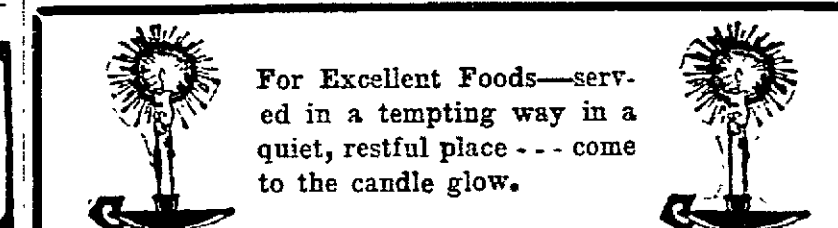

That is what I would have done for all children. Parents and teachers can meet children on a basis of friendly cooperation. They need not set all intercourse with children as to make them know that the feeling that actuates them is one of affectionate concern. When one truly loves there can be no impudence.

Search the situation for the cause. Remove it. Get off the pedestal. Sincerely accompany the child on his search for himself. Lend him the strength of your experience, the wisdom of your accumulated years and don't be afraid to love the child and to let him know it. All question of impudence vanishes.
